It’s said that Magnolia trees are symbols of everlasting connections.

The Garden Club of Virginia cherishes connections. • We connect the past to the present by restoring historic gardens and landscapes. Our everlasting connection and commitment ensure that these treasured spaces will be preserved for future generations to enjoy. • Budding landscape architects connect with research fellowships funded by proceeds from Historic Garden Week tours, creating pathways to opportunities and success. • Homeowners graciously open their properties, connecting garden enthusiasts to the wonders of springtime in Virginia. • Friends and family strengthen their connections while touring these private and historic sites, creating memories and traditions ripe with new discoveries. • Our 3,400 members from 48 garden clubs connect with each other and their communities sharing horticulture, beautification and conservation endeavors. • With a nod to the mighty Magnolia, we are grateful for everlasting connections.

On the Cover: One of the most distinguished homes in Botetourt County, Santillane is listed on the National Register of Historic Places for its architectural design and connection to the Lewis and Clark Expedition. This Georgian brick home occupies 24 acres on a commanding hill outside of Fincastle, near Roanoke. The land on which it stands was purchased by Col. George Hancock in 1795. His daughter, Judith, married Gen. William Clark, the famous pioneer and co-leader of the American West Lewis and Clark Expedition. The current two-story building dates to the 1830s. It is surrounded by breathtaking mountain views and lovely gardens offset by mature white oak, chestnut, and magnolia trees, inspiring the choice of the Southern Magnolia as this year’s showcased flower.

THE GARDEN CLUB OF VIRGINIA WELCOMES YOU TO HISTORIC GARDEN WEEK 2022

The members of the Garden Club of Virginia (GCV) welcome you to visit over 100 private and public gardens, landscapes, homes and historic landmarks throughout the Commonwealth during Historic Garden Week, the nation’s only statewide house and garden tour. View spectacular flower arrangements while visiting gracious homes and linger in gardens to learn more about horticulture, native plants, flower, vegetable and organic gardening.

Close to a century ago our founders recognized the need to preserve and protect the national treasures of Virginia with Historic Garden Week becoming an annual GCV event. For 89 years proceeds from unforgettable home and garden tours have funded the ongoing restoration and preservation of more than 50 historic public gardens and landscapes throughout the state.

Your ticket purchases and donations also provide a research fellowship program for graduate students in landscape architecture and have helped the GCV to make a $500,000 Centennial gift to support projects at Virginia State Parks. As you travel the state, be sure to visit our restoration sites and park projects (see map, pages 6-7).

Historic Garden Week would not be possible without the generous participation of those who open their homes and gardens and the tireless efforts of over 3,400 GCV members. We extend appreciation also to our sponsors who help to make this a rewarding experience for our visitors.

I hope that you will enjoy our special springtime tradition of Virginia hospitality during Historic Garden Week 2022.

ADVERTISING IN THE GUIDEBOOK
For information regarding advertising in the 2023 Guidebook, please email advertising@vagardenweek.org. Rate sheets and contracts for 2023 will be available in early June.

We wish to thank our loyal advertisers, whose support underwrites the cost of printing 55,000 books and distributing them worldwide.

The Garden Club of Virginia exists to celebrate the beauty of the land, to conserve the gifts of nature and to challenge future generations to build on this heritage.
TOUR GUIDELINES

Are face masks required?
The Garden Club of Virginia follows CDC guidelines and Commonwealth of Virginia requirements regarding COVID-19 and its variants. To minimize risk of the spread of COVID-19 and its variants, Garden Club of Virginia members, tour guests, volunteers, and homeowners will be required to wear face masks in all interior spaces associated with Historic Garden Week 2022 tours. Masks should cover both the nose and mouth. Those who do not follow this safety precaution will not be permitted entry into interior spaces.

Refund Policy
Due to the unique circumstances involving COVID-19, and its variants cancellation of tour tickets with a full refund is available through 4 p.m. on Monday, April 4. Cancellations after this date and time cannot be accommodated. However, ticket purchases can be converted to tax-deductible donations at the purchaser’s request for those choosing not to attend. The GCV is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization.

What if it rains?
Tours are held rain or shine, except for tours that are inaccessible due to weather conditions. Please check social media for last minute changes to any of the tours offered this April. Facebook: Historic Garden Week in Virginia and Instagram: @historicgardenweek

Where do the tours start?
Start at the Tour Headquarters location listed in this Guidebook for each tour. The address for the starting location for each tour is printed on your tour ticket, too. Please check individual tour webpages at VAGardenWeek.org for Google Maps of each touring area.

Where do we park?
Parking is available at Tour Headquarters locations. If the tour is a walking tour, this is the best place to park. Many neighborhoods cannot accommodate the additional traffic associated with Historic Garden Week tours that require driving to each location. In these cases, use designated parking areas marked with tour signage. Please do not block residential driveways.

Accessibility
Showcased sites are mostly private properties, and are therefore not always accessible to those using wheelchairs or walkers. Additional accommodations may be available to visitors who are visually or hearing impaired with advance notice, depending on timing and resources.

Touring Notes
As a courtesy to homeowners, please avoid wearing shoes that could damage flooring. For your comfort and safety, please wear flat walking shoes, and watch for steps and uneven surfaces as you visit homes and gardens. As a safeguard against the spread of boxwood blight, please avoid contact with all boxwood while on tour properties.

Children
Children 17 years of age and under must always be accompanied by a parent or other responsible adult. Except for babies in arms or body carriers, children require their own ticket for entrance.

Is photography allowed?
Photography of any kind, including via cell phone, is prohibited inside tour properties, and some tours prohibit exterior photography as well. Please abide by signage. Many of the host garden clubs post professional-quality pictures of the flower arrangements on social media. We encourage visitors to “follow” these accounts, listed by tour in this Guidebook.

Facilities
There are no public restrooms at tour properties, but facilities are often available at the Tour Headquarters or other designated locations in the tour area.

Pets
Pets are not permitted, with the exception of service animals.

No Smoking, Strollers or Large Backpacks
Be mindful of your surroundings. No items that could bump fellow visitors or damage private property are allowed.

PLEASE FOLLOW SAFETY PROTOCOLS

Conservation Notes
In keeping with the GCV’s efforts to reduce plastic waste, please bring your own reusable drink container to tours. Virginia’s natural resources are challenged and stressed by climate change. Carpooling is encouraged.

Disclaimer
Information about tour properties is provided by homeowners and is accurate to the best of our knowledge. Being featured on a tour is not an endorsement by the Garden Club of Virginia of the homeowner’s political views, religious affiliations or other opinions or practices. Homes and gardens are chosen solely for their visual appeal and historic or design interest.

GCV Policies
The Garden Club of Virginia, its member clubs and owners of properties on Historic Garden Week tours are not responsible for accidents occurring on the tours. The Garden Club of Virginia and Historic Garden Week do not allow tour visitors to use golf carts, and do not allow the use of “bootsies” in homes on tour.

LET US INTRODUCE YOU TO THE MOST BEAUTIFUL PRIVATE HOMES AND GARDENS IN VIRGINIA THIS SPRING.

Whether it’s the inspiring gardens, the architecture, the history or the Instagram-worthy flower arrangements created by Garden Club of Virginia members, and with 28 tours to choose from, Historic Garden Week in Virginia offers something for everyone. The only statewide house and garden tour in the nation, this annual springtime ritual includes access to private properties in communities large and small, many open for the first time to the public.

There are numerous ways to organize your Historic Garden Week trip. To plan by region or day of the week, please reference the map on pages 20 and 21.

To ensure a safe and enjoyable touring experience for our guests and volunteers, our tours emphasize outdoor spaces this year. We are excited to offer 128 private properties as the focus for this spring’s tours. We hope these categories are also helpful in your planning:

TOUR PROCEEDS HELP TO FUND
- The ongoing restoration and preservation of nearly 50 of Virginia’s historic public gardens and landscapes
- A landscape architecture research fellowship program

Did you know that you are helping us research and restore iconic places in Virginia by attending a Historic Garden Week tour?

Proceeds have also provided 54 grants in support of Centennial projects at Virginia State Parks.

All projects on the map are referenced in their tour section inside this guidebook. Most are open for Historic Garden Week.

A tradition since 1929, Historic Garden Week draws visitors each year to private properties and historic sites across Virginia each spring. Thank you for your support.

WELCOME ALL!

While Historic Garden Week is the most well-known of its programs, the Garden Club of Virginia hosts numerous other public events throughout the year.

Here are some of the programs, both ticketed as well as free and open to the public, scheduled for 2022.

As one of the nation’s largest daffodil shows, Daffodil Day will feature an estimated 2,000 award-winning daffodil specimens, 45 spectacular floral arrangements as well as eye-catching photography featuring daffodils. The classes for entry for horticulture, artistic design and photography will reflect all things British.

In addition, attendees will enjoy beauty and blooms courtesy of more than 50 acres at Lewis Ginter Botanical Garden, home to one of GCV’s restoration sites, the Grace Arents Garden, and the location of this 88th annual show. The show opens to the public from 2 to 5 p.m., after the three parts of the show are judged.

GCV committees work hard to create the criteria for judging via what is known as a flower show “schedule.” The most exciting schedules provide variety, innovation, challenge, and education for growers, showers and photographers, while advancing the mission of the Garden Club of Virginia.

“New this year is an environmentally inspired class involving the use of alternatives to non-biodegradable floral foam,” explains Meredith Lauter, chairman of the Artistic Design Committee.

“She turned to the sunlight
And shook her yellow head,
And whispered to her neighbor:
‘Winter is dead.’”

— A.A. Milne, author of Winnie-the-Pooh

HISTORIC GARDEN WEEK 2022

The formal presentation of the Enchanted Garden at the Edgar Allen Poe Museum in Richmond will take place on April 5. This romantic courtyard garden was inspired by Poe's love poems and is nestled amidst the five-building museum complex, which includes the Old Stone House built in 1737, the oldest surviving dwelling from the original city of Richmond.

On the eve of Historic Garden Week this year, Stratford Hall's recently completed Upper Garden will be formally presented on April 22nd. One of the finest examples of Georgian architecture in the country, it was the home of Richard Henry Lee and Francis Lightfoot Lee, and the birthplace of Robert E. Lee. The east garden was restored by the GCV with proceeds from Historic Garden Week in the 1930s. Stratford Hall's mission is to showcase the history of the Lee family. Because of this, GCV was asked to transform the upper terrace into a garden that reflected that of Philip Ludwell Lee, great-grandfather to Robert E. Lee. Stratford Hall commissioned an archeological study to guide the design. Nearly 90 years after our first project, GCV began this extensive restoration.

The result is a garden with a wide central path lined by yews. On each side of the walkway, hedges enclose vegetable gardens. At the end are trellises that support heirloom pears. Along the brick walls that enclose the space, perennial borders provide seasonal color.

The GCV is thankful for generous support from Bartlett Tree Experts, a long-time partner that provided underwriting for the first economic impact study of this beloved statewide event in 2014. Five years later, Bartlett’s sponsorship made an update of this initial study possible. We are proud to share the current cumulative economic impact of Historic Garden Week to Virginia from 1969-2019 is an impressive $518 million.

From the restoration of the oldest English formal garden in North America at Bacon’s Castle to recreating an 18th century garden at Stratford Hall, buying a ticket to a Historic Week tour directly impacts the restoration and preservation of historic public gardens in Virginia. Whether researching, documenting, or restoring important landscapes across our commonwealth, the work of the GCV impacts communities both large and small.

To celebrate our Centennial in 2020, the GCV looked to the past to build for the future. We committed to supporting Virginia’s state parks, which the GCV had advocated for 100 years earlier. Wildflower walks, natural children’s play areas and pollinator habitats are just a few of the 54 projects funded by Historic Garden Week through this special partnership.

The new garden reflects Gillette’s original intentions while allowing room for students to move freely through the space. The site is an elegant place for rest, study or socializing. New trees expand the Baldwin Memorial Collection of Woody Species and were selected in consultation with the Conservator of Botanical Collections and Associate Director of Gardens and Grounds at William & Mary.

The world’s most renowned floral designer has always taken inspiration from nature, letting plant material lead the design process. “When spring returns, walking around your garden can be like arriving at a party and finding that lots of really good friends have turned up,” Pyrke says. Don’t wait to purchase this coveted ticket at GCVirginia.org.

Also in May is a presentation of the Reveley Garden at William & Mary in Williamsburg. Named in honor of the university’s 27th President, W. Taylor Reveley, Ill and his wife, Helen, this recent project of the GCV is a partial restoration of a 1926 Charles Gillette-inspired garden. It was designed as part of the Beaux-Arts campus plan, but never built.

T he event is dedicated to the memory of Helen Murphy, a former president of the GCV and member of the Garden Club of the Northern Neck. According to her daughter Anne Brumley, Murphy’s life-long love for lilies began when she was named Lily Chairman for her local club, of which she was a founding member in 1966. Not one to boast about her successes at the annual show, her daughter Anne shares, “Dad would proudly report that at least one blue ribbon was achieved. And this was after her hand wringing about not having any good lilies to enter.”

Lilies come in many colors and varieties. There might not be an easier way to beautify your garden than by planting these beauties. “They offer so much and require so little as far as special care and attention,” Patti Lynch, president of the Rappahannock Valley Garden Club, says. “Our club is so excited to host Lilies in Bloom. Lilies attract pollinators, they are hardy and grow pretty much anywhere, you can share divided plants with neighbors and other lily-lovers, they provide food for hummingbirds, and they make beautiful cut flowers,” she continues. “What’s not to love?”

Like most serious growers, Helen kept meticulous records on each variety, noting time and quality of blooms. “My dad was enlisted to assist her with the preparation of her stems at the Lily Show, a job he relished,” Anne says. “Their wedding anniversary usually occurred during the show, which allowed the other garden club members attending to celebrate with them.”
SEPTEMBER 20 & 21

Spring flowers might get the most attention, but the late-season garden is when perennials take center stage, and the landscape is awash in bright jewel tones. The GCV’s popular Symposium will take place at the Science Museum of Virginia in Richmond. This two-day extravaganza features ticketed presentations as well as multiple events that are free and open to the public.

The Symposium kicks off with a hands-on demonstration by Françoise Weeks, renown for her botanical couture and woodland designs. It also includes workshops, speakers, and a comprehensive flower show with horticulture, photography, and floral design.

Weeks was born in Belgium and started her botanical arts and floral design business in 1996. She infuses her work with a reverence for nature. Combined with creativity and mechanical ingenuity, she has crystalized her singular style of textural woodlands and botanical haute couture pieces, garnering a global following. Tickets for her presentation go on sale this spring and are $75 pp.

Additional programming features Thomas Woltz, international landscape architect, and renowned photographer Robert Llewellyn, as well as a lively flower arranging contest called “Snipped” (like a TV cooking contest, but with flowers!).

If you are a gardener, consider participating in the Horticulture Show. You do not need to be a member of a garden club to join the flower-filled festivities. If your late-summer garden is overflowing with dahlias and old-fashioned roses, snap your home-grown favorites and enter. There is no need to pre-register at what is designed to be the most fun, least intimidating, and colorful flower show in the state. GCV volunteers will be on hand to help you register, identify your specimen, and prepare it for showing. Nearly 500 stems are expected to compete for ribbons.

All three aspects of the Symposium — horticulture, artistic design, and photography — are wonderful learning experiences, whether you enter a specimen or simply enjoy browsing to admire nature’s bounty. You’ll be inspired with new information to help plan your next garden purchase, create an arrangement without using floral foam, or learn about Dutch Flemish design and the trend in botanical wearable couture. Dozens of arrangements are expected to compete in the Artistic Design part of the show.

“ITs widely anticipated annual fall event, the GCV Conservation Forum, makes available to members and the public important environmental information,” explains Allison Clock, committee chairman. Since its creation over 63 years ago, this annual event has brought focus to important topics including fracking, uranium mining, and pesticides, to name just a few. Recent keynote speakers include New York Times best-selling authors Doug Tallamy, author of Nature’s Best Hope – A New Approach to Conservation that Starts in Your Yard, as well as Jennifer Ackerman, author of The Genius of Birds. Check GCVirginia this fall to register.

Showcased properties change every year, making this a unique opportunity for garden-lovers, history buffs, and those who want to step inside the most spectacular private properties in Virginia. A highlight includes the late Bunny and Paul Mellon’s 4,000-acre estate, Oak Spring, which will be participating in Historic Garden Week again. The full schedule for Historic Garden Week 2023 will be posted at the end of the summer. Tickets will go on sale the following winter, February of 2023.

Located just south of the nation’s capital, the area is filled with charm and character. This itinerary offers everything you’d want in a getaway – iconic sites, quaint Main Streets and gardens galore.

The first Saturday presents two options. Winchester is a hub for outdoor adventure as well as a town with panache, anchored by a pedestrian mall brimming with local shops and al fresco dining. Steeped in history, Winchester is the oldest city west of the Blue Ridge Mountains. The tour features four sites, three of which served as hospitals during the Civil War. Rose Hill Farm and La Grange House are fully restored 18th century homes. Valerie Hill Winery was built in the early 19th century, and Belle Grove withstood the Battle of Cedar Creek.

If you’d prefer an easy walking tour, head to Old Town Alexandria on Saturday. This tour includes private homes and secluded gardens nestled along the tree-lined streets of the Historic District. Established in 1749, the area was a major seaport prior to the Revolutionary War, occupied by Union Troops during the Civil War, and a torpedo production site during World War II. At its heart is King Street, a walkable mile that leads to a serene stroll by the waterfront.

Just eight miles south on the George Washington Memorial Parkway lies Mount Vernon, the home of George and Martha Washington. From the end of the American Revolution in 1783 to his election to the presidency in 1789, Washington replaced outbuildings, reshaped gardens, created new lawns, planted trees and even realigned roads and lanes. With proceeds from Historic Garden Week, the Garden Club of Virginia helped to restore its bowling green, one of the major landscape features on this vast plantation.

Virginia’s only Beatrix Farrand garden, Green Spring, is also in Alexandria. The GCV recently restored the stone wall, rejuvenated the boxwoods and redesigned a more recently installed perennial bed to reflect Farrand’s signature plant choices. The house and 18 acres are now part of the Fairfax County Park Authority.

On Sunday and Monday, April 24 and 25, visitors will enjoy a stroll along Cornwall and King streets in the heart of Leesburg’s Old and Historic District, just 37 miles away. Established in 1757 as the seat of Loudoun County, Leesburg is situated in Virginia’s premier horse and wine country. This walking tour features charming late-18th through 20th century properties and beautifully restored gardens, all close to popular downtown shops and restaurants.

Take time early in the week to explore other sites in the area that have been restored by the GCV with Historic Garden Week tour proceeds over the last 89 years. Oatlands, six miles from Leesburg on Rt.15, is a c. 1805 Greek Revival mansion that was once the center of a thriving 3,400-acre plantation. A portion of the terraced gardens were restored by the GCV.

About 76 miles north in Boyce, the State Arboretum of Virginia at Blandy Plantation sprawls on 172 acres. Trails meander through the property, which boasts 5,000 varieties of trees and shrubs. Highlights include a gingko grove that includes 300 trees, a Cedar of Lebanon allée, an herbaceous garden, a native plant trail, and the American Boxwood Society’s Memorial Garden, home to 162 varieties of boxwood. A GCV restoration site, Dogwood Lane and its original stone walls were rebuilt in 2004 along a road that once led from the manor house to the farm.

On Tuesday, discover more than two centuries of history on a driving tour in Fairfax. One countryside home features a restored log cabin on attractively landscaped grounds, adding charm to the modern amenities of this estate. Certified as an Audubon Wildlife Sanctuary, another private home attracts an abundance of birds with its verdant gardens and English boxwood. Two historic homes in the City of Fairfax will be of interest to history buffs.

If you’d prefer an easy walking tour, head to Old Town Alexandria. This tour includes private homes and secluded gardens nestled along the tree-lined streets of the Historic District.
SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 2022, 10 A.M. TO 4 P.M.

Overlooking the Potomac with views of our nation’s capital, Old Town Alexandria radiates charm while safeguarding its rich historic roots. Established in 1749, Alexandria was a major seaport prior to the Revolutionary War, occupied by Union Troops during the Civil War, and a torpedo production site during World War II. In 1946, Alexandria was the third city in the country to establish a historic district to preserve its architectural heritage. This easy walking tour includes private homes and secluded gardens nestled along the tree-lined streets of the Historic District.

SELF GUIDED WALKING TOUR

TICKETS INCLUDE ADMISSION TO THE FOLLOWING 5 PRIVATE HOMES AND GARDENS:

515 South Fairfax Street

In 1796, land was purchased for the construction of several dwellings. By 1800, there were three nearly identical row houses constructed on the site. Records show that at that time, Joseph Milburn purchased 517 and 515. The properties stayed in the family for almost 30 years. When the Milburn heirs sold 517 and 515, the deed mentioned two brick tenements on the lot. These early residences backed up to an oyster processing plant, which was not uncommon at that time. Residents, manufacturing, carpentry shops, dry goods shops and professional offices all shared the early Old Town neighborhood. At some point, the two lots were divided and sold separately. In 2019, the house was completely renovated by the current owner and the garden refurnished with new hardscaping and plant material. The current owner frequently finds very old oyster shells when working in her garden.

508 South Fairfax Street (Garden)

This restored carriage house has an interesting history. Its nucleus was built in 1801-07 as a horse stable. By 1852 it had evolved into a handsome brick carriage house of “fair dimension.” Remodeled in 1874, the building was owned by a wealthy banker and his wife, a direct descendant of Thomas Jefferson, and was further converted to living quarters in 1848. In 1992, the present owner constructed the front addition, which contains the living room, dining room and kitchen. Landscaping features in the front include ornamental hornbeams along the left wall and a pergola draped with clematis. Follow brick walkways through gardens filled with spirea, autumn fern, hellebores, peonies and heuchera. A female goddess sculpture from Bali creates a focal point amid ferns. There is a bronze Peter Beard sculpture on an oak plinth surrounded by perennial geraniums. The cobblestone and brick alley, brick walls and a private pool add to the garden’s charm.

206 Duke Street

This stately brick townhouse dates to 1836, replacing an earlier frame structure built by George Coryell in 1794. His father, Cornelius Coryell, was George Washington’s guide during the Revolutionary War. The family was said to have rowed Washington across the Delaware River in December 1776 for the surprise attack. The current structure was probably constructed by master builder, Asher Benjamin, who used similar brick detailing in the 1835 rebuilding of the Old Presbyterian Meeting House following a fire. In 1875, a floundering wing (a roof with a single slope) was added to the south. In 1998, a major renovation was undertaken by the current owners. At that time, the light filled kitchen addition was constructed to the east of the original structure. This is one of only a handful of houses in Alexandria with a geothermal heating system located beneath the garden. Due to the heat from wells located deep under the surface, grass was impossible to maintain so state-of-the-art artificial turf was installed. In 2012 another addition connecting the family room to the existing garage and constructing a lower level under the rear of the house was completed. The east end of the family room was expanded into the garden providing multiple views into the garden and the kitchen patio. The garage dates to the early 20th century and is the first known structure in Old Town designed specifically to house an automobile. Others tend to be converted carriage houses. The garden features a “Little Temple” encircled by wisteria providing a dramatic focal point and comfortable seating area. Evergreens, lacy Japanese maples, sheared hornbeams, and various espaliers form the framework of the garden. Bowers of roses on cast iron trellises soften the brick walls and two small ponds add sound and sparkle to this outdoor haven.

Maria and Harry Hipper, owner
323 Duke Street

This home was constructed about 1800 as part of a long horizontal structure. The portion that ultimately became #323 was a carpentry shop for many years. Much later, the buildings were divided into three single family homes. In the 1950s, 323 Duke was purchased by Polly Hulfish, who was well known at the time for her many “restorations” around Old Town. At the time, she “colonialized” it by adding shutters and mullioned windows. The current owner and her sister purchased the property in 2008 and completed a major renovation. Subsequently, in 2014, there was an addition which provided a second bedroom, bath, and a dormer in the back of the house. Maria Hopper, owner

512 Prince Street

This townhome was once the residence of Patsy Ticer, the first female mayor of Alexandria. Several other members of the Ticer family were active in local politics as well, serving in various positions in city government. As is quite typical of the period, the core of the house, known as the Piano Room and the area immediately above, predates the rest of the structure. It was constructed in 1783. Many land grants at the time required a structure to be built within a prescribed period. As a result, often a modest structure was constructed in the center of the lot. Later, as the owners prospered, a larger and grander edifice was constructed closer to the street. That was probably the case here, as the front portion is believed to date to the early to mid 1800s. In 1971, an addition consisting of a family room and another bedroom was completed. A feature believed to be unique to the house is a series of archways in the basement thought to have been completed in the late 18th or early 19th century. The home was purchased by the current owners in 2018 who subsequently renovated the home, preserving the antique elements and removing non-historic dividing walls. The back garden was completely redesigned to include a new patio, fencing, plantings and a charming Koi pond with a relaxing waterfall. Catherine and Mark Haymans, owners

This 550-acre National Historic Landmark was the home of George Mason (1725-1792), author of The Virginia Declaration of Rights. The estate consists of a Georgian mansion, c.1755, and reconstructed kitchen, dairy, laundry, and schoolhouse. The Potomac River is viewed from the historic boxwood garden. During April the conceptual plan for the restoration of the river-side garden will be on display. While not a current restoration project of the Garden Club of Virginia, the GCV assisted Gunston Hall with landscaping work from 1949-53. gunstonhall.org

Green Spring Gardens
4603 Green Spring Rd.
This public garden and historic site includes Virginia’s only Beatrix Farrand garden, which was recently restored by the Garden Club of Virginia. In 1784, gentleman freeholder John Moss built a brick house on several hundred acres of farmland. In 1942, young power couple Michael and Belinda Straight bought the house and 33 acres and engaged Farrand to design a simple garden room behind the house: a spacious lawn enclosed by a boxwood crescent with a stone retaining wall. The GCV restored the stone wall, rejuvenated the boxwoods, and redesigned a more recently installed perennial bed to reflect Farrand’s signature plant choices. In 1970, the Straights deeded their house and 18 acres to the Fairfax County Park Authority. Fairfaxcounty.gov/parks/greenspring

Taraworth
11035 Brookline Drive

Located at the end of a quiet cul-de-sac, this Southern Colonial brick home built in 1966 on 2.4 acres is bordered by the Country Club of Fairfax golf course and the East Fork of Popes Head Creek. The house, decorated in an English country style, has extensive custom millwork, and retains much of its original design. A brick pathway leads from the street through the front garden to a two-story covered front porch spanning the entire length of the home. The front porch has views of the golf course, a small fruit orchard, and the expansive front gardens including a large fountain. Visitors are welcomed into the green foyer, which boasts the original checkerboard marble floor, a large art deco walnut bar and an 1860s French bronze. The spacious living room boasts three seating groupings, crystal chandeliers, a marble fireplace, walls of Monticello yellow, and paintings by the homeowner. The sapphire blue dining room features raised paneling and custom built-in cabinets original to the house, and an antique mirrored silver plateau on a mahogany American empire dining table. The colonial inspired kitchen and laundry have cherry cabinets, leathed granite countertops, copper accents, and herringbone brick pattern floors matching the antique brick accent walls. The breakfast room showcases a chestnut bibliotheque from Québec. Taraworth is a certified Audubon at Home Wildlife Sanctuary and has a stream, two freshwater springs and an amphibian pond. The rear of the property is wooded with mature trees. Inviting pathways lead to an exterior dining area, a “secret garden” with colorful glass orbs, and a clearing with a metal gazebo housing a statue.

Mulberry Manor
3610 Old Lee Highway

This Colonial home on 12 acres was built in 1988. Changes by the homeowners make the home distinctly contemporary and include the open floor plan and walls of windows overlooking backyard koi ponds with three waterfalls and a footbridge. Flooring throughout the home is reclaimed random-plank heart pine. Art collections include four bronze statues, five original Mucha lithographs and a pastel obtained at auction from Clyde’s, where the homeowners met. An entire bedroom suite and office are custom-built of wild black cherry from West Virginia, Ms. Braun’s home state. A back-lit, stained-glass panel in the piano room is from an old English abbey. A host of other antiques and contemporary items are artfully blended throughout the house. The kitchen is a large space with state-of-the-art amenities and rustic touches such as reclaimed ceiling beams and wood posts, an oven-surround of Civil War-era brick from Baltimore, two hammered-copper sinks and counters of polished granite, honed granite and poured concrete. Outdoor rooms and garden areas include a cottage garden, shade gardens, a vegetable garden, a “Peaceful Garden” with a Celtic cross-shaped walking path, a firepit, two brick patios with dining areas, a sport court, a pool and pool house, a pond and a newly acquired historic barn. A pre-Revolutionary War-era cabin behind the main house was used as a hunting cabin by Lawrence Washington, half-brother to George Washington. The renovated cabin has a living-dining area with a stone fireplace. A narrow staircase leads to the upstairs bedroom and bath with all-natural wood floors, walls, and ceiling. Jane Elizabeth and Richard Braun, owners.

ё Historic Blenheim and the Civil War Interpretive Center
3610 Old Lee Highway

Historic Blenheim is a c. 1859 central-hall plan Greek Revival-style brick farmhouse built by Albert Wilcoxson just prior to the Civil War. It is nationally significant for the voluminous quantity and quality of Civil War inscriptions. More than 122 signatures, pictographs, games, and thoughts were left on the house walls by Union soldiers during their occupation of the Fairfax Court House area in 1862-63. This “diary on walls” provides insight into the life of a typical soldier and the effect of this war on local residents—such as the Wilcoxson family—and free and enslaved people of African descent. In the Civil War Interpretive gallery, wall inscriptions and pictographs from the house are reproduced with full-sized photographs in the replica attic. The
The Ratcliffe-Allison-Pozer House
10386 Main Street

The Ratcliffe-Allison-Pozer House was built in 1812 by Richard Ratcliffe, the City’s founder, and expanded by 1824 by the Allison family. This charming brick house is the City’s oldest residence within what was the original six-block Town of Providence. The daily activities of some of its 12 owners and occupants are interpreted for visitors, illustrating commercial and domestic change along Main Street during the 19th and 20th centuries. The last two owners were Kate Waller Barrett, a prominent social reformer, and her daughter, Kitty Pozer, the first gardening columnist for the Washington Post and writer for other gardening magazines. Following her mother’s death, Kitty purchased the house with her husband, Charles Pozer. She deeded the house to the city in 1973. Following her death in 1981, the City purchased her extensive property that extended to North Street to create the Kitty Pozer Garden, a passive park showcasing Kitty’s gardening tastes intertwined with meandering pathways and benches beneath a tall tree cover. Kitty Pozer was one of the founders of the Garden Club of Fairfax and an officer in the Garden Club of Virginia, which sponsors Historic Garden Week, the nation’s only statewide house and garden tour. fairfaxva.gov/government/historic-resources/ratcliffe-allison-pozer-house

Join us for a stroll along Cornwall and King streets, in the heart of Leesburg’s Old and Historic District. Established in 1757, as the seat of Loudoun County, Leesburg is situated in Virginia’s premier horse and wine country. This walking tour features charming late-18th century residences, shops and restaurants.

St. James’ Episcopal Church
14 Cornwall Street, NW

St. James traces its history to the early 1700s in Loudoun County. This Richardsonian Romanesque structure, built in 1897, was designed by Washington DC architect Leon E. Dessez; it resembles several DC churches. It replaced an earlier building on Church Street, near the Loudoun County Courthouse. The sanctuary is illuminated by two signed Tiffany windows, in addition to several windows from the Heaton Firm, in England. The building was damaged by fire in 1929 and was rebuilt in 1931, according to its original design. The flag of General George C. Marshall hangs above the pew where he regularly worshiped.

21 Wirt Street, NW

This 1894 home is an excellent example of a Queen Anne-style house. It has been modernized over the years by the current owners, who are on the fifth family to own the property. The wraparound porch, sun porch, spacious and light-filled interiors, unique mantelpieces, and blending of old and new furniture and art give this home its special character. The gardens maximize fragrance near windows and sitting areas and provide long-lasting color and interest throughout. They are filled with abundant spring bulbs and perennials, including mature tree peonies and weigelia. Several types of coral bells are used in the garden. The rear yard is framed by mature American boxwood and viburnum, creating a hedge for privacy. Flowering fruit trees, a vegetable garden, a small fishpond garden, statues and arbors are some of the additional treasures in the rear and side yards.

209 Cornwall Street, NW

The Colonial Revival home, designed by Joanne Tiffany, was built in 1950. It was constructed on the foundation of an early 19th century residence, and later used as the Black Cat Ordinary, which was destroyed by fire in 1948. The property was previously owned by Burr Powell Harrison, Jr., a renowned champion of historic and environmental preservation in Loudoun County. and his wife, Agnes Harrison, founder of Keep Loudoun Beautiful, member of the Leesburg and Fauquier-Loudoun garden clubs, and a board member of the Garden Club of Virginia. The current owners purchased the property in 2013 and completed an extensive renovation in 2015. The renovation included the conversion to a geothermal heating and cooling system and the addition of a basement, east-side porch, large flagstone patio and two fountains. Their update also included the removal of a partial asphalt driveway in the backyard. Three large cisterns are buried beneath the rain garden in the southeast corner of the property, to collect stormwater for irrigation. The half-acre lot features mature trees, Japanese holly, Chinese snowball viburnum and climbing roses. Two Japanese lilac trees provide fragrant blooms and shade on the rear patio. A row of 165-year-old boxwoods anchors the back of the property, while providing a four-season screen. Dogwoods, Amelanchier, hellebores, daffodils and tulips provide springtime blooms. The gardens, which appeal to pollinators, feature lavender, phlox, liatris, cardinal flower, and aromatic asters.

211 Cornwall Street Garden

This home is an example of Federal-style architecture in Leesburg’s Historic District. Records indicate the original 2-1/2 story brick section was constructed in 1788. A two-story frame addition was recognized in 2012 with a “Historic District Design Excellence Award” from the Loudoun County Joint Architectural Review Board. The formality and symmetry of the house’s architecture is reflected throughout the exterior and gardens. The yard is organized according to four “rooms,” which are delineated by small ornamental trees, boxwoods, and yew hedges. The narrow side yard, framed with hellebores, star magnolia, dogwoods, and hydrangeas, draws visitors back toward the second area, which is bounded by the back porch, fountains, crabapple trees and a potting shed. The central formal garden, surrounding the focal sculpture of Diana the Huntress, follows a tranquil white and green color palette with peonies, hydrangea, white lavender, and roses. Beyond the tall yew hedges is a fourth “room,” which contains raised beds for vegetables, a cutting garden for seasonal flowers and a workshop, also built in 2011.
215 Cornwall Street, NW

The original portion of this Federal-style brick home was built in 1824 and included a front parlor, side hall with stairs leading to a second-floor bedroom, and a detached brick kitchen. 19th and 20th-century expansions include a dining room connecting the main house to the original kitchen, a 1960s wing with a family room and bedrooms, and a guest cottage at the rear of the three fourths-acre property. The seven-foot kitchen hearth is one of six fireplaces in the home. The foyer features an 18th century grandfather clock by Connecticut clockmaker Daniel Burnap. The current owners converted a rear porch into a breakfast room adjacent to the original kitchen and restored the brick patio designed by acclaimed landscape architect M. Meade Palmer. The smokehouse is used as the owners’ workshop; the icehouse below is used for garden storage. The gardens include boxwood, spring bulbs, and flowering trees. The recent addition of raised vegetable beds and a spacious chicken coop provide the owners with a steady supply of produce and eggs.

Winchester
SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 2022, 10 A.M. TO 5 P.M.

Visitors will enjoy this scenic tour of the lower Shenandoah Valley. Travel Valley Pike, the historical “wagon road” of early settlers, through southern Frederick County. Steeped in history, Winchester is the oldest city west of the Blue Ridge Mountains. Famous for changing hands over 70 times during the Civil War, it was home to George Washington’s headquarters. This driving tour features four sites, three of which served as hospitals during the Civil War. Rose Hill Farm and La Grange House are fully restored 18th-century homes, and Valerie Hill Winery. Contact Paula Gibbs at pgibbswinchester@gmail.com

TICKET PRICE INCLUDES ADMISSION TO 4 HOMES, AS WELL AS THE MUSEUM OF THE SHENANDOAH VALLEY:

Rose Hill Farm
1855 Jones Road, Winchester

Recent acquisition by Preservation Virginia, Rose Hill Farm is the residence of Dana Hand Evans, Director and CEO of MSV. Glen Bernie is the ancestral home of the Wood family. Rose Hill is the ancestral home of the Glass family. The two families became linked in 1832 with the marriage of Catherine Wood and Thomas S. Glass. The site of the Civil War’s March 23, 1862 First Battle of Kernstown, Rose Hill was also used as a hospital at that time. Visitors will enjoy a 1.25-mile walking trail with Civil War interpretive signage. A portion of the property now operates as a working farm. The house was originally the centerpiece of a Scotch-Irish farm of several hundred acres. The first portion was built as a three-room log cabin around 1796. A three-story wing including two main floors with an English kitchen and side porch, or portico was added around 1829 to the southwest of the main portion. The third addition, two main floors, a basement, and a full clerestory-style attic, was added in 1859 to the northwest of the main building, at which time all three sections were covered in off-white stucco. The portico was removed, and the main door rerouted to the west. Interestingly, all the wood flooring, doors, trim, etc. not used or removed for the renovation are labeled and stored, so the house can be restored to its pre-1859 appearance. The landscaping is tastefully done as it would have been in the 18th century. The Museum of the Shenandoah Valley (MSV),

La Grange
5498 Valley Pike, Stephens City

One of the most visually prominent 18th-century dwellings sites along Route 11, otherwise known as the Valley Pike, La Grange has historical associations with significant Frederick County citizens. These include Vance Bush, a local 18th century landowner and trustee of the German Presbyterian Church in Stephens City, and Dr. John McCloud, a local physician, and a Member of the Virginia House of Delegates in the mid 18th century. Architecturally, the house is a fine example of a sophisticated stone dwelling rendered in the late Georgian to early Federal style typical of the late 18th century. It retains its architectural integrity and is enhanced by the presence of a large frame bank barn that speaks to the significance of agriculture to the economy of Frederick County in the 19th and early 20th centuries. During the Civil War, the property most certainly saw a lot of military activity due to its location directly off the Valley Pike, the major thoroughfare through the Shenandoah Valley. Although no know skirmishes occurred in the immediate area, according to research conducted by local historian Butch Fravel, the house was used as a hospital after the Battle of Cedar Creek in October 1864. A large mobile field hospital was also set up on the grounds after the battle. Owned by California transplants, it is both a private home and a future event venue. The barn houses milking goats and California chickens.

Valerie Hill Winery
1687 Marlboro Road, Stephens City

This 1807 Federal style brick manor house sits on an 18-acre farm just south of Winchester near Stephens City. While there have been changes and renovations over the years, many of the original features remain, including the staircase, hardwood floors, windows, and horse-barn wall plaster. Like the other properties featured on this tour, a Civil War skirmish, the Battle of Cedar Creek, was fought nearby. And like La Grange and Rose Hill, Valerie Hill served as a makeshift hospital. Today, the manor house serves as the Tasting House, the focus and namesake of a family owned and operated farm winery, Valerie Hill Vineyard and Winery. It is the location of the tour lunch.

Scenic byways and country roads connect bucolic parks and local attractions on this four-day itinerary through the South region of Virginia’s Historic Garden Week tours.

Begin your tour on Wednesday, April 27, in Martinsville. Featured newer homes on tour reflect standards set by the craftsmanship of stately century-old mansions. Visitors will appreciate the elegant, early 20th century homes of industrialists who built the city—the Pannill, Schottland, and Townes families—and the modern sophistication of mid-century design showcased in neighborhoods off Mulberry Street. Martinsville is one of only 130 designated Bee Cities in America. The extensive private gardens demonstrate the principles outlined in this significant designation.

Although Historic Garden Week tours are not open to pups, Martinsville’s Paw Path at the Smith River Sports Complex offers canines and their companions a hiking trail in a safe, fully fenced natural space. The half-mile trail runs along the scenic Smith River and brims with more than 300 pollinator-sustaining wildflowers, trees, and shrubs.

A stretch of Route 58—extensive enough to reach from Virginia Beach to the Cumberland Gap—connects Martinsville with Danville, not far from the North Carolina border. Rolling, rural scenery dotted with farms, woodlands, and small communities offer tourists a taste of small-town America, history, and hospitality. The easy, pleasant drive is only about 30 miles from one town to the next.

Danville boasts a Garden Club of Virginia restoration site, the Sutherlin Mansion, presently home to the Danville Museum of Fine Arts and History.

Danville’s first automobile suburb. Established during Virginia’s textile and tobacco heyday, it highlights classic 20th-century design in homes and gardens.

Head to the Roanoke Valley, in the heart of the Blue Ridge Mountains at the intersection of two national forests, the Appalachian Trail and the Blue Ridge Parkway. The famed two-lane mountain top road offers vista after vista as it twists and turns its way through Roanoke, crosses the backside of Mill Mountain and passes over the Roanoke River.

Friday is a free day, so take advantage of your proximity to the thriving city of Roanoke. Blooming at the top of Mill Mountain, the Mill Mountain Wildflower Garden offers respite and sweeping views of the city among hundreds of native plants, trees, and shrubs. Beside the garden visitors will find the entrance to the small but varied Mill Mountain Zoo and the Mill Mountain Discovery Center, an educational program recreation center.

The Historic Roanoke City Market, in use downtown since 1882, has hotels, dozens of restaurants, boutique shops and vendors selling locally grown flowers, fruits, vegetables, baked goods, cheeses and hand-crafted items. Nearby greenway walking and biking trails follow the Roanoke River and lead to parks and kayak launches at the base of Mill Mountain.

On HGW’s final day, Saturday, visitors will enjoy a short trip 20 miles north of Roanoke to the historic town of Fincastle, the seat of Botetourt County. Fincastle, chartered in 1770, celebrated 250 years in 2020. The historic village boasts dozens of structures, such as the courthouse, that date to the 18th century.

This driving tour features five private homes and gardens, including Santillane, the cover property on this year’s HGW Guidebook. Designated as a Lewis and Clark community with ties to both Andrew Lewis and William Clark, Fincastle is the location of Fincastle Presbyterian Church, a restoration site of the Garden Club of Virginia made possible by proceeds from HGW tours.
THURSDAY, APRIL 28, 2022, 10 A.M. TO 5 P.M.

This tour showcases the Forest Hills neighborhood, Danville’s first automobile suburb. The area was established during Virginia’s textile and tobacco heyday and features classic 20th century design in homes and gardens. Danville boasts a Garden Club of Virginia restoration project, the Sutherlin Mansion, presently home to the Danville Museum of Fine Arts and History. On the lawn of the museum enjoy a fun and informative day as we pay homage to the Garden Club of Virginia and celebrate its work in horticulture, conservation, and restoration.

276 Hawthorne Drive
This white brick Federal style home built high on a hill has been extensively renovated over the last couple of years by previous owners. Originally built by John and Mary Pruitt in 1936, the lot directly behind the home was given to their daughter to build her own house. Elizabeth Taylor spent the night at 276 Hawthorne Drive when she was married to John Warner, as guests of George, and Sarah Buchanan, who were owners at the time. The Shoffs, who loved it for its location and architectural details, purchased the home in 2020 and transformed it into a perfect space for entertaining. When a large tree caused extensive damage during 2018’s Hurricane Michael, basically destroying the structure, the residence required an extensive renovation the following year. In fact, the house was condemned for a long while. The current owners have continued renovations to make it their own, with their goal being to create an atmosphere of serenity and relaxation. The entire home is decorated in restful shades of soft whites and pale grays that showcase an extensive contemporary art collection, procured during their many travels. Work by artists, including Mark Lewanski, whom the owners consider “the rock star of glass,” Trevor Mikota, Kristin Blakeney, and Tali Landsman, invigorate the otherwise traditional spaces. Furnishings continue the modern theme, with large white plush furniture throughout the home. Boasting a curved staircase in the entry foyer, the main level includes a large living room, family room, dining, study, a gourmet kitchen with top-of-the-line appliances, a solarium style sunroom, a large rec room, and a piano room. The backyard includes a gorgeous brick patio decorated with oversized furniture, creating a cozy space where guests can lounge and overlook the expansive backyard.

Angela and James Shoff, owners

500 Hawthorne Drive
Designed by J. Bryant Heard, the most prolific architect in the Danville area in the 20th century, this white-painted brick house was one of the first homes built in the Forest Hills neighborhood. The development was laid out in Pittsylvania County prior to its 1932 annexation. The Forest Hills Development Corporation, of which Mr. Heard, and Mr. Ben Temple, for whom this house was built, stipulated that all dwellings be architect-designed. Both gentlemen were directors of the corporation. Featured as the “Ben Temple Residence” in a catalogue of Mr. Heard’s architectural commissions from about 1930, the home was built between 1926 and 1928. The Georgian Revival style is reflected with the full-length, two-story monumental portico. In 1933 the property was acquired by the Herman family, whose successive generations became identified with the house for most of the next 50 years. During the early 20th century, Louis Herman was widely regarded not only as the enterprising industrialist-owner of Dan River Knitting Mills, but also the dean of Danville retailers. His store, L. Herman’s, rivaled in quality and sophistication by powerhouses Miller and Rhoads in Richmond, was purchased by the Thalhimers. It remained a fixture in downtown Danville for the next 35 years. The home overlooks a shaded landscape with beds of azaleas, ivy, and many other blooming shrubs. The landscape can be viewed from the wide front veranda, the patio off the sunroom, and a secluded back patio. This storied residence was purchased by A.B., Jr. and Ruth Carrington who bequeathed the property to Averett University in January 1983. It has been home to four Averett presidents and their families. Howard W. Lee, the first president of Averett to live in the home, completed major renovations in keeping with the original design. The spacious rooms and flowing floor plan allow crowds to mingle during university events. Large windows in the living, dining, and sunroom allow natural light to complement the fine antique furnishings. The formal china, which is on display, was donated by the late Mary Jo Davis, former Dean of Students, Averett’s current president, Dr. Tiffany Franks, and her husband, Joe, have added to the decor with art and furnishings from their extensive travels. Averett University, owner.

PLACE OF INTEREST

Sutherlin Mansion
975 Main Street
The Danville Museum of Fine Arts & History is located within the restored 1859 Sutherlin Mansion on Millionaires’ Row and is considered one of the finest examples of Italian Villa architecture in Virginia. Designed by F.B. Clopton, it is enhanced by a picket fence, a reproduction of the one in place there in the late 1880s, and a restoration project of the Garden Club of Virginia with funding from Historic Garden Week tours. At the time it was built, the house was considered the grandest in Danville. It was situated on four acres of land with several outbuildings: a kitchen, servants’ quarters, a carriage house, greenhouse and stable. By 1912, the acreage had been reduced to approximately one and the outbuildings had been removed. After being sold to the city, the house was used for multiple purposes, including its use as the Danville Public Library from 1928 to 1972. The library added wings to the main building in 1934 and 1950. A firehouse next to the Mansion was converted to art studios in the late 1970s and is still a bustling ceramic studio. The studio is divided into two spaces, one is the ceramic studio area and the other is a painting and life drawing area. Today it has been established as a museum showcasing a wide variety of exhibitions, classes, workshops, camps, and educational programs. There is a beautiful rose garden on the grounds given in memory of Sige Perkinson, a former member of The Garden Club of Danville, and Rose Chairman for ten years. It is maintained, both financially and physically, by The Garden Club of Danville. On tour day, the grounds of the Museum will come alive when local garden clubs celebrate the endeavors of the Garden Club of Virginia, Historic Garden Week’s sponsor.

Grove Street Cemetery
940 Grove St., Danville
Established in 1833, this small space is surrounded by a stone wall and closed only by a latched gate. Much of Danville’s history is entombed here. The cemetery is an ongoing restoration project of The Garden Club of Danville.
Martinsville’s architectural history is steeped in elegance. Featured newer homes are inspired by the quality standards set by the craftsmanship of its stately century-old mansions. Visitors will appreciate the elegant early 20th-century homes of industrialists who built the city – the Pannills, Schottland, and Townes – as well as the modern sophistication of mid-century homes. These new structures are a testament to the changing tastes of a city that has evolved with the times.

The Townes House 327 East Church Street

This gracious bungalow-style house with slate roof, built by furniture-store owner Benjamin Townes in 1922 or before, is believed to be the largest of its style in Martinsville. The step back in time begins at the driveway of reclaimed cobblestones, flanked by gas lanterns on posts. The entrance is paved in marble salvaged from the original Martinsville post office. It leads to a solid oak front door framed by a beveled, leaded glass surrounded by an arched transom. The spacious interior features coffered ceilings, a central staircase with straight spindles, elegant paneling and four original fireplaces. Above the fireplace in the formal living room is a framed portrait of the Townes family. The family room features built-in bookshelves flanking a fireplace. A remodeling by owners created an attractive kitchen from three smaller rooms as well as a porch. The current owners have expanded it further and added commercial-grade appliances and a porcelain farmhouse sink. A breakfast room with built-in cabinetry and a butler’s pantry links the kitchen to the dining room. At each side of the house are rooms dominated by windows, linking indoors to out; one side porch was made in 1924 with stone by masons working on Fieldcrest Lodge. The house was opened in 2012 as part of Historic Garden Week when it was owned by Jenny and Jerry Blankenship. The current owners bought the house in 2020.

Virginia Museum of Natural History 21 Starling Avenue

Virginia’s state museum of natural history was founded in 1984 as a private museum. Four years later it became an agency of the Commonwealth of Virginia. It is accredited by the American Alliance of Museums and is a Smithsonian Affiliate. With its mission to interpret Virginia’s natural heritage within a global context in ways that are relevant to all citizens, the museum supports a scientific staff studying biology, archaeology, and paleontology that generates new knowledge of the commonwealth. This information is translated into its exhibits and public programs. The museum’s collections include millions of fossils, insects, birds, mammals, minerals, and historic and prehistoric Virginia Indian artifacts. Highlights include a 225-million-year-old gliding reptile endemic to Virginia, mollusks used to identify properties for conservation priority and a recently acquired cat skeleton from a western Virginia cave. A new effort is the Cultural Heritage Monitoring Lab, which assists governments around the world with identifying and prioritizing mitigation efforts for cultural sites under threat from military conflict or natural disaster, including recent work in Haiti, Djibouti, Honduras, and Afghanistan.

One Starling Avenue

This American Foursquare-style home was built in 1925 by Nicholas Schottland, co-founder of Virginia Mirror Company, and his wife, May Finley Schottland. The brick two-story home has a boxy shape and dormer window centered on the sloped roof, which were hallmarks of the foursquare house. The basic style was modified with Colonial Revival elements, which include the paneled front door with sidelights and fanlight, and a portico with pediment and Ionic columns. The home was of such historic and architectural significance that it was saved from scheduled demolition 15 years ago by a group of concerned citizens. It was then purchased by a local businessman and used as office space for several years. Recently, it has been converted into a bed and breakfast and small events venue. The original architectural elements of the interior remain, including the staircase, chandeliers, high wainscoting, built-in cabinetry, dentil crown molding, and a paneled overmantel with pilasters. Antique furniture from the current owner’s family is juxtaposed with contemporary pieces. The second floor has four bedrooms which are furnished in a minimalist but comfortable manner.

Scuffle Hill, Christ Episcopal Church Parish House

This handsome Georganian red brick house has a rich heritage that parallels Martinsville’s 20th-century history. The original home was built in 1905 by Col. Benjamin F. Stevens, a former president of Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company. His daughter and her husband, Col. Pannill Rucker, lived in the house until it was destroyed by fire in 1917. Col. Rucker began rebuilding the residence using the same remaining original walls left standing after the fire, but he sold the property to Rives S. Brown, who completed the rebuilding project. In 1933, the home was sold to William Letcher Pannill, founder of Pannill Knitting. Mr. Pannill renamed it “Scuffle Hill” because he had to “scuffle up the money” to pay for it. In 1959, the home was sold to Christ Episcopal Church and reconfigured for use as a Sunday School.
center, church office and location for social functions. The present structure, which remains virtually unchanged since its completion in 1920, was designated a Virginia Historic Landmark and placed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1997. The house features a Doric portico and Georgian and Federal influenced mantels and interior doorways. Of note are the central entrance hall with grand staircase and the Flora Whittle library with mahogany paneling with fluted pilasters and wide window seats. The formal parlor, dining room and library are decorated with pieces, such as the magnificent pier mirror from the Pannill family, which were donated by church members and former residents of the home.

1411 Whittle Road

This inviting one-story brick house unites home and garden. Visitors enter through double doors into a spacious foyer that leads a step down to the living room, emphasizing views of the lush and inviting gardens outside the patio doors and wide windows. Inside, recently refinished dark hardwood floors gleam. The house is decorated with family antiques and pieces bought from the estate of a collector who had traveled the world. These include an intricately hand-carved table with glass top, a collection of figurines from Japan, and a set of Civil War hero statuettes. A commanding antique armoire in the living room was bought by the homeowners in France and disassembled to ship to the United States. The living room opens to a brick patio covered by a canopy of stately red-bark crepe myrtles. Various conversation areas include one featuring an outdoor fireplace. A former round brick-lined reflective pool is now a garden bed of ajuga below and weeping cherry above, with an attractive backdrop of irises, daylilies, red roses, pink rose-of-Sharon and more. Stone walkways meander through flower beds and to the backyard. Defined by a curved border of woodland shrubs, this private space slopes down a hill to woods.

This driving tour features five private homes and gardens, including Santillane, the cover property on this year’s Guidebook. Designated as a Lewis and Clark community with ties to both Andrew Lewis and William Clark, Fincastle became the county seat in 1772 when Botetourt County stretched all the way to the Mississippi River. Fincastle boasts multiple buildings dating to the 18th and 19th centuries. It is also the location of Fincastle Presbyterian Church, a restoration project of the Garden Club of Virginia.

TICKET INCLUDES ADMISSION TO THE FOLLOWING 5 PROPERTIES:

The Reynolds Home

1789 Gravel Hill Road

Built in 1839, the Reynolds Home is a Federal-style farmhouse situated on ten acres of pastoral property. Purchased by William and Electra Reynolds in 1882, it has been occupied by five generations of the Reynolds family. The original brick structure consists of a central hall flanked by large rooms on each level. An addition at the rear of the house was completed in 2005. The front foyer includes a vintage Italian rosewood hall table and a custom Chobi rug. The formal living and dining rooms feature intricately patterned Persian carpets in rich hues of blue, red, and white. Other furnishings of note include a George III Welsh dresser, an English mahogany bow front chest of drawers c. 1800, and a French gilt cushion mirror c. 1880. Kaye Reynolds Lowe and Alan Harper Love, owners

Prospect Hill

420 South Church Street

Built high on a hill just south of Fincastle in 1818 by John Gray, Prospect Hill was originally called Gray’s Folly. Each window of the home frames views of the town and the mountains. Constructed in the traditional board-sided Federal style, it was added to the National Register of Historic Places in 1979 as one of only two houses in Virginia built with those specific architectural characteristics. On both levels of the home, the front and rear windows and doors are perfectly aligned. This design is a nod to the classical lines of Federal architecture, and an important engineering feature. This practical plan allowed breezes to circulate through the entire house. In 1930, the McDowell family added a back porch and west wing and re-plastered much of the house. They were able to repair and retain the original white pine floors in the dining room. In 2001, the late Ron Lucas and his wife purchased the home. Valerie continues to renovate and modernize it. Note the restored hand-carved interior woodwork, as well as a mantel with a horizontal sunburst design and vertically carved sunburst panels. Valerie Lucas, owner

Solitude

108 Main Street

This c. 1805 Federal-style house with gingerbread detailing is in the heart of downtown Fincastle. Ron Lucas and his son Jason completed an extensive renovation and modernization of it in 2004, which preserved and repaired the original heart pine floors and detailed hand-carved moldings. That year it was purchased by current owner, Charlotte Hagan, who has since added significant work to the grounds over the last 15 years. The gardens include heirloom peonies, multiple perennial beds and extensive hardscaping integrated into the landscape design, including a lap pool. During the garden renovation, the owners discovered blue glass medicinal jars, animal bones and gigantic molars buried in the soil. The interior boasts an impressive grouping of American, English, and Italian ceramics and porcelain, as well as a collection of work by Rockwood artists. Several paintings by well-known regional artists are complemented by pieces from the Ogunquit School. The home is filled with hand-crafted furniture personalized by local master craftsman Jake Cress. Of note is the large carved bed custom made by Mr. Cress that references Mrs. Hagan’s love of flowers and gardening. Angela and John Sengen, owners

Santillane

99 Housman Street

One of the most distinguished homes in Botetourt County, Santillane c. 1795, is listed on the National Register of Historic Places for its architectural design and connection to the Lewis and Clark Expedition. This Georgian brick home occupies 24 acres on a commanding hill outside of Fincastle. The tract on which the house stands was purchased by Col. George Hancock in 1795. His daughter, Judith, married Gen. William Clark, the famous pioneer and co-leader of the American West Lewis and Clark Expedition. This magnificent property is such a perfect depiction of history and beauty that an image of the home was selected for the cover of the Historic Garden Week Guidebook. The property’s historical grounds boast mountain views and lovely gardens offset by mature white oak, chestnut, and magnolia trees. The home’s kitchen wing and smokehouse were part of the original dwelling. The present two-story home dates from the 1830s. It features five chimneys and ten original fireplaces; eight remain in use today. Original interior metal latches with brass knobs carry the seal of England. Previously, this property was a special events venue as well as a bed and breakfast. It has now been returned to a private residence. The owners enjoy a love of gardening and are in the midst of revitalizing the grounds. The interior features a collection of original art by Edouard Cortes, Harold Little (a local artist), and various 18th-century portraits. Angela and John Sengen, owners

Wind Flower Farm
185 Wild Rose Way

A Frank Lloyd Wright-style prairie home, Wind Flower Farm rests atop a 25-acre mountain plateau in Botetourt County. Built in 2003, the home’s design brings the outdoors in with vistas from every room. An open concept floor plan, tall ceilings and glass windows provide a 280-degree view of the Blue Ridge Mountains. Frank Lloyd Wright features include stained glass fixtures and overhang roofing. Furnishings of interest include a 1700s antique breakfront, a Shenandoah Valley pie safe, two New Hampshire cedar captain’s chests, a Bucket Ben from Pennsylvania, and an apple-picking ladder, which now displays a quilt collection. The master bedroom contains numerous antiques including a carved mahogany tester bed, walnut highboy, cherry blanket chest and Sheraton bureau. Other bedrooms display additional period pieces including a cannonball rope bed, a tiger maple canopy bed, and a Victorian curly maple desk. Other notable features in the home include a Currier and Ives needlepoint wall-hanging, soapstone carvings, Alaskan artwork, and prints in the hallways by a local artist. A potting shed and pergola stand outside with vegetable and flower cutting gardens.

Bacon’s Castle affords visitors a rare opportunity to step back in time. It is the largest documented 17th century garden in America. An architectural gem, it features triple-stacked chimneys and curved Flemish gables.

Smith’s Fort Plantation is the site of the original fort begun by Capt. John Smith in 1609. The brick dwelling was built in the mid-18th century on land given by Powhatan to John Rolfe on his marriage to Pocahontas. The garden was created by the Garden Club of Virginia in 1936 using tour proceeds from Historic Garden Week.

More than 1,800 miles of bay and riverside shore beckon water lovers to explore the area’s natural beauty. With three choices on the first day of Historic Garden Week, the hardest part will be deciding which tour to take.

From scenic country landscapes to its famous Virginia peanut companies, Franklin’s tour features four properties open for the first time for Historic Garden Week, including an updated farmhouse on a 600-acre working organic farm. Farther east and taking place on Saturday, too, is the Gloucester tour in Mathews County.

Rich in farmland and important to the Virginia fishing industry, this bucolic area is nicknamed the “Daffodil Capital of the World” because it was the location of peak years of daffodil production between the two World Wars. Reflecting a maritime heritage, all featured homes are situated on the pristine waters of the East River. Visitors will tour four historic properties close to each other and downtown Mathews, including an elegant home surrounded by expansive gardens built by a shellfish tycoon, and classic 19th century sea captain homes.

While in the area, be sure to visit nearby GCV restoration sites. Bacon’s Castle and Smith’s Fort Plantation are both located in Surry, only 40 miles away. Built in 1665, Bacon’s Castle affords visitors a rare opportunity to step back in time. It is the largest documented 17th century garden in America. An architectural gem, it features triple-stacked chimneys and curved Flemish gables.

Smith’s Fort Plantation is the site of the original fort begun by Capt. John Smith in 1609. The brick dwelling was built in the mid-18th century on land given by Powhatan to John Rolfe on his marriage to Pocahontas. The garden was created by the Garden Club of Virginia in 1936 using tour proceeds from Historic Garden Week.

Spend Saturday, Sunday, or Monday touring three iconic waterfront Virginia landmarks—Shirley, Berkeley and Westover Plantations—all located along scenic Route 5 beside the James River. Berkeley was the site of the first official Thanksgiving in 1619. The Georgian mansion has five terraced gardens that were dug by hand before the Revolutionary War.
Shirley is home to 12 generations of the Hill Carter family, and is the oldest active family-owned business in America. Construction on the mansion began in 1723 and direct descendants continue to live in and operate the mansion today. Historic Westover is one of the finest examples of Georgian architecture in America. See the newly added kitchen, decorated by Bunny Williams, located in the former library wing. The lawn includes century-old tulip poplars and offers a commanding view of the James River.

Both Shirley Plantation and Historic Westover are recipients of GCV’s fellowship program, made possible through funding from Historic Garden Week tours. Designed to provide graduate level students in landscape architecture opportunities, students work under the guidance of professionals and provide valuable research findings upon completion of their term. Participants have built an impressive library of historic garden documentation since 1996 when the fellowship program was initiated.

On Tuesday, continue south down scenic Rt. 5 to Williamsburg. Focused on Bicentennial Park, this walking tour includes grand floral displays created by talented local Garden Club of Virginia designers. Finish your day on Henry Street at the Wolf family’s formal garden parterre, and the Reveley Garden at William & Mary, a recently completed GCV project made possible by proceeds from Historic Garden Week. Its terraces, pathways and plantings embody the GCV’s continuing commitment to the restoration and preservation of historic landscapes in Virginia.

On Wednesday, take a half-hour drive to the Hampton - Newport News tour that showcases the charming village of Yorktown. Visitors will enjoy York River views from the featured homes and stroll the waterfront open air market. History buffs can tour the c. 1720 “Old Customs House” and its adjoining colonial herb garden.

If the ocean beckons, head southeast to Virginia Beach. Two GCV clubs work together to offer this tour, which also takes place on Wednesday. Featured tour properties are located between the Atlantic Ocean and Linkhorn Bay in the bucolic neighborhood.

From the historic white clapboard ocean front home where General George S. Patton and his family spent summers, to a North End Palladian residence, visitors will enjoy the antiques and treasures gathered from all corners of the world that are showcased within. Other properties highlight contemporary and Nantucket styles, as well as lovely gardens with serene water views.

On Thursday, stroll through the historic West Freemason neighborhood in downtown Norfolk. Bound by the breezes of the Elizabeth River, and almost destroyed by the British in the Revolutionary War, the surviving private properties offer both style and history. This walking tour showcases many of Norfolk’s historic structures now backlit by the glow of surrounding modern life.

Venture north about 70 miles on Friday to the Middle Peninsula, established in 1691. This tour rotates through the four area counties annually, with King & Queen County being the focus this April. Featured properties are in the lower end of the county known as the Buena Vista District. Visitors will enjoy a forested landscape with open fields and winding roads. All homes are surrounded by towering shade trees. Three of the five have sweeping river views of the York or Mattaponi rivers.

The last day of Historic Garden Week, April 30, offers a true getaway. Explore quaint waterfront towns and nearby beaches, as pristine as they are vast on the Eastern Shore. Settled just a few years after Capt. John Smith landed at Jamestown, this narrow peninsula is situated between the Chesapeake Bay and the Atlantic Ocean. The tour features private gardens and homes in the Southern-to mid-section of the peninsula. While there, make time to visit Ker Place, a restoration project of the Garden Club of Virginia, located in beautiful Onancock. This c. 1799 structure is home to the Eastern Shore of Virginia Historical Society.

Perennial tour centerpiece and National Historic Landmark, Eyre Hall, is an acclaimed ancestral property displaying some of the country’s oldest continuously maintained gardens. Whether you are seeing it for the first time or have visited before, this is one of the most beautiful private gardens in Virginia. It is planted to be at its height during Historic Garden Week.

SATURDAY, APRIL 30, 2022, 10 A.M. TO 4 P.M.

Come experience gardens and waterfront homes on Virginia’s historic Eastern Shore. View the sunrise on the Atlantic Ocean and the sunset over the Chesapeake Bay while exploring the 70-mile-long peninsula. The Eastern Shore is renowned for its rich history, scenic farms, pristine preserved coastlines, seafood, and warm hospitality. Quaint towns dot the way north from Cape Charles to the Maryland state line. Our 2022 tour features gardens and homes in the Southern-to-mid section of the peninsula. Perennial tour centerpiece and National Historic Landmark, Eyre Hall, is an acclaimed ancestral property displaying some of the country’s oldest continuously maintained gardens.

Tower Hill, 3018 Bowden Landing, Cape Charles

Located on a scenic bluff overlooking King’s Creek, Tower Hill was built c. 1746. This historic Georgian home’s four stories of livable space are complemented by an array of balconies and porches, offering exceptional vistas from all levels. Tower Hill has provided a wealth of function on the lower Eastern Shore, most recently as a B & B and restaurant in the early 2000s. The current residential owners have masterfully restored and redesigned the home and grounds. Indoor features include the entry-way’s grand, hand-painted custom de Gournay wallpaper and music room with impressive 8-foot windows and a tapestry dating to the late 1700s. Tower Hill's elegantly appointed ensuite bedrooms retain historical integrity while providing modern era comforts. In the cellar, an exposed brick private dining “wine room” and pub are a treat for entertainers and guests alike. A sublime outdoor living scene is set via a custom creek-side reflecting pool with fountains, framed by an elegantly structured boxwood-lined parterre. Outdoor entertaining spaces overlooking King’s Creek, such as the fire pit with teak tree-root seating, are abundant. A small graveyard located near the bank of King’s Creek dates to the early 1800s. Kelly and Tom Rowe, owners

Eyre Hall

3215 Eyre Hall Drive, Cheriton

Honored as a National Historic Landmark, this acclaimed ancestral property offers a rare picture of colonial plantation life. The key to Eyre Hall’s remarkable preservation lies in its descent through eight generations of the same family. The gambrel-roofed manor was completed in 1758 by Littleton Eyre. Before the end of the century, Littleton’s son and grandson had, in their turn, inherited his masterwork, adding an eastern wing and laying out a grand rear garden. Happily, for historians, the three early owners were succeeded by stewards who declined to gild their classic legacy with the passing fancies of later eras. Today, Eyre Hall visitors are delighted to find that the refined but soft-spoken style of its creators remains wonderfully in place. The past also lives in the garden, where venerable crepe myrtles tower above parterres enclosed by ancient boxwood and set off by colorful mixed borders. On the west, the recently stabilized remaining walls of an early orangery add a hint of romance to the garden scene. Beyond the house and garden, broad stretches of open fields and long views over Cherrystone Creek complete the placid panorama awaiting visitors to this perennial centerpiece of the Eastern Shore tour. H. Farlong Baldwin, owner

The Jeffrey at Shooting Point

5243 Tickfank Way, Machipongo

Situated along Church Creek, The Jeffrey at Shooting Point is a new, Coastal Tidewater style home, completed in 2018. The interior features heart pine floors, vaulted ceilings, and an open floor plan well-suited for modern living. A vibrant and eclectic collection of art from the homeowners’ travels, and by various local Eastern Shore artists, is showcased throughout. Reclaimed bricks from a Baltimore warehouse are repurposed in the service areas, interior chimneys, and laundry rooms. First and second floor porches offer creek breezes and undisturbed water views. The intuitive floor plan of the upstairs master suite includes walk-through closets, upstairs laundry, and office. An open-concept chef’s kitchen, complete with a vintage oyster can collection, flows into the sun porch. Copper exterior finishes, rain chains and an herb garden accent the exterior. The sizable outdoor living area includes a creek-facing pool and an inviting patio with a pergola and fireplace. Informal and lush coastal gardens frame the home with a variety of grasses, palmettos, mixed native plantings, roses, boxwoods, hydrangeas, and ferns. The pastoral waterfront landscape is further enhanced by live oaks, magnolias, crepe myrtles and palm trees. Susan and Christopher Gass, owners

Windingdale, 35344 Windingdale Drive, Belle Haven

Set on a high bluff overlooking Occohannock Creek, Windingdale has long been considered one of the Eastern Shore’s most distinguished early properties. The original section of the residence dates to c. 1780. Despite the differing roof lines and floor levels created by several additions and modifications over the years, the long façade of the present house flows harmoniously across the landscape. In the interior, the entry hall frame is flanked by grandly proportioned living and dining rooms. A hand-carved mantel and exquisite crown moldings are highlights of the banquet-sized dining room. Major architectural renovations in recent decades have transformed some of the home’s early rooms. Beautifully crafted newer spaces include a waterside glassed porch, a modern kitchen with Travertine countertops and flooring, and a master bedroom with sweeping views.

213 River Road
A former weekend retreat, this home has been transformed during the past three years into a full-time residence. The owners wanted to downsize from their house in the city for a less formal life in a farmhouse that has been in their family for a generation. This impressive renovation was featured in the winter 2020 issue of The Cottage Journal. Built in 1952, the house was traditional in style, dark in color, and formal in decor. Today, the interior is filled with a mixture of antique American and modern furnishings, hues of blues, greens, and muted neutrals, favorite books and collectibles, and European art. The foyer creates an aura of comfortable elegance instead of rustic farmhouse fare. The den features cypress paneling original to the home. A den closet houses a unique bar sporting botanical wallpaper. A former outside porch has been enclosed to provide a sunroom/breakfast room. Both the den and sunroom provide views of an expansive outdoor deck large enough to host fall outdoor concerts. The kitchen features floating from the owner's mother's home in Norfolk, chicken wire behind sage painted glass cabinet doors, shiplap walls, and a European AGA stove. Burlap walls in the dining room encompass an 11-foot reclaimed pine dining table built for hosting large gatherings. Garden spaces on the property have been restored with pollinator-friendly and indigenous plants. Claire and David Benjack, owners

101 Hummingbird Drive
This retirement cottage at The Village at Woods Edge belies the term, proving that downsizing does not mean giving up space or family treasures. Collected pieces are everywhere, including a Boston chest and a black walnut grandfather clock in the foyer. A wall separating the kitchen from the great room was removed and replaced with a bar eating area above storage cabinets. Cherry cabinets in the kitchen were refurbished with pull-out drawers to be more accessible. The great room features an 1850 Harrell family clock, an oak china cupboard, and an oak sideboard that the owner refitted as a bar. Mr. Hunting, a Maine native, is interested in the outdoors. His office features taxidermy, not from animals killed, but from animals found frozen in the snow and ice of the cold Maine winters. There is also a framed Japanese flag signed by everyone in his father's Marine unit during WWII. A guest bedroom features a bed carved by Mrs. Hunting's great-great-grandfather in 1870, as well as a Boston grain chest. The master bedroom features a family oak bed

125 Crescent Drive
Built in 1988, this Colonial-style home also includes a two-story in-law suite added in 2015. Soothing green and coral tones, naturalistic paintings by Oklahoma artist Ray Harm, antiques, Asian accents, and various collections, create a warm, inviting atmosphere. The foyer and its grandfather clock set the stage for other clocks from Holland and Germany gathered by the owner's parents during their military travels. Framed Oriental silhouettes cut by the owner's aunt grace the foyer and hall walls. Collections include jade and Swarovski figurines, cloisonne from Vietnam and Hummel figurines. The eat-in kitchen renovated in 2015 features cherry cabinets and an antique cabinet for baking supplies. The den and the back porch overlook a patio and yard full of perennial and annual plantings, as well as turtle figurines collected by the owner. Patti and David Rahil, owners

310 Woodland Drive
Built in 1998 from a Southern Living floor plan, this home features herringbone brickwork and curved brick steps leading to a front porch accented by boxwoods. An impressive two-story foyer includes dentil molding that continues throughout the home. A watercolor of the home and other paintings by local artists grace the hallway. A small den features pecky cypress cabinets and a wet bar. Adjacent is a great room with large windows opening to a comfortable screened porch complete with outdoor heaters, creating a “winter room” for the owners to enjoy during colder temperatures. The kitchen area boasts the last cherry table ever made by Lexington Furniture before its closure. Antiques in the dining room include an extendable square dining table with needlepoint chair cushions, and a European loveseat. Judy and Tom Fariss, owners

FRANKLIN

SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 2022, 10 A.M. TO 5 P.M.

Franklin’s love for pine trees began in 1887 when the town saw manufacturing growth due to the Camp brothers, who purchased a small sawmill along the Blackwater River. The town continues to benefit from the generosity of the Camp family. This tour features four properties open for the first time for Historic Garden Week – an updated farmhouse on a 600-acre working organic farm, a cottage at The Village at Woods Edge, and two homes in neighborhoods filled with tall pines.
suite, an oak spinning wheel, and a wash-bowl and pitcher. Artwork in the bedroom and hall was painted by Mr. Hunting’s father. Cindy and Rich Hunting, owners

The Chamber Walk
110 West Second Avenue
On September 16, 1999, Hurricane Floyd’s flood waters inundated the historic district in the City of Franklin, including its 182 businesses. Many buildings were destroyed and had to be condemned. A project of the Franklin Garden Club emerged from this devastation. The Chamber Walk is a garden path that serves as a reminder of Franklin’s darkest hours and the difficult but defining days that followed. As a recipient of the GCV’s Common Wealth award for their efforts, The Franklin Garden Club created a lasting testament to the indomitable faith, courage, generosity, and hope that preserved our community then and sustains us all now and in the future. We shall be forever grateful to those who rose to this challenge and to those who contributed to this garden.

Christ Episcopal Church
320 Williams Wharf Road

Kingston Parish was established around 1652 as one of the four Anglican parishes of Gloucester County, which included what is now Mathews. Christ Church is one of only two remaining Episcopal churches of Kingston Parish in Mathews County. In 1715 references to “ye Easternmost River Church” were discovered in an old vestry book. The cemetery, which surrounds the church, is the resting place of Captain Sally Thompkins, CSA, the first woman to be commissioned as an officer in an American army. Sally’s sister, Elizabeth Thompkins, was largely responsible for restoring parish life and rebuilding the church in 1841 after it fell into disrepair from two decades of disuse. A stone tablet memorial to Elizabeth is located behind the altar rail in the chancel. She is buried in the courtyard with Sally.

Riverlawn
Accessed via shuttle or short 1/4 mile walk from shuttle lot.

This classic white frame house on the banks of the East River was built in 1874 and has undergone an impressive rehabilitation that began in 2012. Riverlawn’s interior is a four-over-four central hall plan repeated on three floors, with a staircase that provides formal access to all levels. The home contains architectural surprises, such as a breakfast nook tucked into an old passageway near the kitchen, heart-of-pine floors, large center halls, and eight fireplaces. The powder room is wallpapered with nautical charts of the Chesapeake Bay. A side porch takes in sweeping views of the river and boasts two large bed swings for cool summer sleeping. An extensive art collection focuses on water-related and rural themes. Riverlawn is graced with numerous old-growth hardwood trees, including a massive Willow Oak which measures 23 feet in circumference. Riverlawn’s twenty scenic acres also include The Cottage below. Carter and Joe Reid, owners

Riverlawn Cottage
Accessed via shuttle or short 1/4 mile walk from shuttle lot.

The Cottage was built c. 1931 and completely remodeled in 2017. There are ten steps from the ground level to the first floor. The building consists of three bedrooms, formal living and dining rooms, and a sun porch. The house has an open feeling, and with its neutral color-scheme, gives a sunny, minimalist vibe, setting off the artwork beautifully. In addition, there are river views from every window. The living room has a beautiful shell light fixture and interesting birds’ nest prints. The dining room still has its original stained glass in the windows and a “pickled” soft grey-green colored finish on the floor. A welcoming porch runs the width of the house on the river side and affords a captivating view. There is also a swinging bed for summer sleeping. Like Riverlawn, the Cottage enjoys the shade of huge old willow oaks. Martha and Lee Osbyman and Carter and Joe Reid, co-owners

Samarkand
341 Samarkand Lane

This estate embraces 26 bucolic acres on Woodas Creek, an estuary of the East River. Visitors will find beauty everywhere—from the winding alle of crepe myrtles that frame the driveway to mature gardens containing an extensive collection of specimen trees, camellias, boxwood, and perennials. The vastness of the landscape lends itself to stroll punctuated with noteworthy outdoor features. There is a sculpture by the internationally known artist Jun Kaneko, a small pavilion next to a lotus pool, and a central fountain in an oval garden depicting a boy riding a swan. The three-story Federal-style home was built in 1927 by Edwin Treacle, affectionately known as “the Clam King,” who earned his fortune at the Fulton Fish Market in New York City. The classically elegant interior of Samarkand with its marble foyer, raised panel wainscoting and coffered ceilings is the perfect backdrop for an eclectic art collection, including works by local and international artists. In addition to the décor, visitors will enjoy the stories behind many of the items, including a Chinese sideboard and a child’s chair that belonged to the owner’s grandmother. The house is being opened for Historic Garden Week for the first time. The gardens were previously opened in 2013. Karen Viler and Mark Polisik, owners

Virginia Historic Landmark and/or by Mathews banker Joseph E. Healy, moved to a spot on the East River, and re-named “Eastham.” It now nests among pines, giant magnolias, and great oaks. The house is a three-story, two-over-two Greek revival-style frame house from approximately 1825. It has heart-of-pine floors throughout, many still showing the careful numbering necessary for proper reconstruction at the new site. All rooms have river views. The pool and pool house were added by the current owners in 2018-19. The owners have mixed old and reproduction furniture with current artwork for a breezy up-to-date style. In the living room, note the original windows with names etched into the wavy glass. A painting by Ron Johnson, using layers of ribbons and tape, catches the eye, as does an unusual structure made from a tangle of vines. The long table is a reproduction of Thomas Jefferson’s “rent” table, made in Staunton, VA. In the kitchen, the blue and white china collection is set against a deep blue color scheme. Eastham was last open for Historic Garden Week in 2008.

King & Queen County on Virginia’s Middle Peninsula was established in 1691. This tour is in the lower end of the county known as the Buena Vista District. Visitors will enjoy a forested landscape with open fields and winding roads. Featured homes are surrounded by towering shade trees, and three of the five have sweeping river views of the York or Mattaponi rivers. One home is the site of a ferry between the county and West Point that began in the 17th century and existed for 200 years.

Aspen Grove
1393 Lewis B. Puller Memorial Highway, Shacklefords

This historic house was built in the early 19th century by Absalom Bland, Hunter Richardson’s third great-grandfather. The house has been totally redone in recent years. It is two stories with an English basement and a two-story front porch. There is a formal living room and dining room with a butler’s pantry and bedrooms on the third floor. The basement includes an office and a bedroom. An addition on the back has a kitchen and family room combination.

Stacy and Hunter Richardson, owners

Garrett Anderson House
432 Bellevue Lane, Shacklefords

This 19th century farmhouse was built on family land that was part of historic Bellevue. Mr. Beverly Anderson purchased Bellevue in 1835, and left it to his two sons, Wilbur and Garrett. Wilbur received the land with Bellevue. Garrett inherited the other half of the property. It is thought that he built the original part of the house. The house is located on a knoll above the York River down a long dirt road. There are large shade trees in the yard. The original house was expanded to add more rooms on the first and second floors. There is an open back porch with a wonderful, sweeping view of the York River. The current owners placed the property under conservancy and have been stabilizing the shoreline to prevent it from eroding. Visitors may drive to the river to see the conservation efforts. They have also undertaken the replanting of many trees on the property.

Brookshire
380 Dudley Ferry Road, Mattaponi

This historic property, now surrounded by more modern homes, is located on the Mattaponi River across from West Point, and is the site of Dudley's Ferry, which began in the 17th century and existed for 200 years. The ferry was used during Bacon’s Rebellion, the Revolutionary War, and the Civil War. The house was built before 1782 by the Dudleys, who operated the ferry for some of that time. Later in the nineteenth century it was acquired by the Brookes family and the name was changed to Brookshire. Surrounded by huge shade trees, the large two-story house features beaded weatherboarding, a five window Dutch roof and connected end chimneys.

Don Elmore, owner

Brookshire to accommodate a growing family that included ten daughters. In the 1950s, it was removed and relocated to its current spot closer to the Mattaponi River to be used as a summer home. A screened porch and a kitchen were added at that time. A 1989 expansion of the kitchen includes a beautiful Florida room with expansive views of the river. It’s been enjoyed by many tenants, some of whom have become permanent residents of the area.

Poroporone Baptist Church
1379 Centerville Road, Shacklefords

This church has a rich 215-year history. Founded in 1807 as “Pocorone,” the structure and the congregation have grown steadily through the years. In 1879, to have better member accessibility, the humble original frame church was moved three miles. The current brick building was constructed nearby in 1951. It was enlarged in 1999.

Join us in celebrating the 200th birthday of Frederick Law Olmsted, the “father” of architectural landscape and urban public parks. Stroll through the neighborhood of historic West Freemason in Downtown Norfolk. Bound by the breezes of the Elizabeth River to the west and south, and once almost destroyed by the British in the Revolutionary War, surviving West Freemason showcases many of Norfolk’s pre-Civil War structures now backlit by the glow of surrounding modern life. Original cobblestone streets will lead visitors to beautiful homes, and gorgeous gardens.

THURSDAY, APRIL 28, 2022 10 A.M. TO 5 P.M.

TICKET INCLUDES ADMISSION TO THE FOLLOWING 4 PRIVATE PROPERTIES, 5 PRIVATE GARDENS, AND 4 ADDITIONAL PROPERTIES, A TOTAL OF 13 SITES:

- 300 Dunmore Street
  Once unique in historic West Freemason, this traditional, spacious brick six-bedroom, three-story townhouse was built in 1901 by a prominent architect who lived in the area and continued the revitalization of the beloved Downtown neighborhood. Replacing the old warehouses and civic buildings of the past, these beautiful row houses sport facades of white pillars and American flags that are now the popular backdrop for many local graduation, engagement, and wedding photos. The light and bright interior of the home features high ceilings and distinctive architectural elements, most notably, the decorative faux-tin design in the formal dining room. Most importantly to the owners, it acts as the setting for many family gatherings for their six children and their families. Judge Bruce and Nancy Wilcox, owners

- 304, 306, and 308 Botetourt Street (Gardens Only)
  Peek over the front garden gates into three individually owned West Freemason townhouse gardens all resplendent in spring foliage and color. In the spirit of Frederick Law Olmsted, well known for his design of public and urban parks, these petite, but lovely, gardens take advantage of calm river breezes and marina views. They are decorated with brimming containers and plantings that provide much needed color and respite from busy city living. Visitors are encouraged to walk around back to the “mews” behind the lots to continue the garden exploration. Summer vegetables wait to sprout and raised platforms allow for more room for spring blooming bulbs.

- The Old Public Library 345 West Freemason Street
  An extravagant structure for any time, the grand Beaux Arts building built in 1904 on West Freemason began its long life as Norfolk’s first free public library, but is now a private residence. Funded by a grant from Andrew Carnegie and built on land donated by the children of William Selden to honor their father, this impressive stone edifice pays homage to its literary beginnings. Upon entering the front door, visitors will discover Minerva, the Roman goddess of wisdom. Names of classical authors are etched on Lion’s head cornices. Various writers’ busts are nestled in the atrium arches including one of William Shakespeare, located at the top of a grand marble staircase. After viewing the interior, modernized for today’s comforts and lifestyles, allow time for a stroll around the charming urban patio. Patty Letchworth, owner

- 352 West Freemason Street
  Constructed in the 1890s, this historic brick home has had many callings. Now a private residence, it was once an apartment and housed a shop in the full English basement. A previous owner’s mother was a prominent New York-based interior designer who suggested leaving the exposed brick, ceiling joists, and beautiful 14-inch thick original walls exposed during a recent renovation. Lovely hand-oiled Russian white oak flooring was cut and fumed in Siberia, and terracotta tile was reclaimed from a French farmhouse. A focal point of the kitchen is a panoramic window and glass door with views of blooming jasmine. A stone patio leads into a backyard and front garden, where a hatch for a 1,000-bottle wine cellar is hidden in the patio decking. Drs. Katherine and Graham Watson, owners

Hunter House

240 West Freemason Street

Built in 1894, by the Hunter family, this two-story Victorian home and garden serves as a perfect example of Victorian decorative arts, furniture, and architecture. Usually open to the public for a fee, the Hunter House Victorian Museum included in the tour is proud to be part of the Garden Club of Virginia’s Historic Garden Week. As will be all featured properties, it will be decorated with spectacular floral arrangements by local GCV clubs.

Norfolk Botanical Garden

6700 Azalea Garden Road

In 1938 Frederic Heutte, a young horticulturalist, and Thomas Thompson, Norfolk city manager, were given 150 acres to establish a city azalea garden. By 1942 the garden displayed nearly 5,000 azaleas, 75 landscaped acres, and five miles of walking trails. Today, the 175-acre botanical garden is accredited by the American Alliance of Museums and run by a private non-profit. Home to more than 60 gardens that can be viewed by tram, boat or foot, it boasts 15 miles of paths. Gardens include cultivated and wild native and exotic plants in themed gardens such as the largest rose garden on the East Coast, a butterfly garden and house, Japanese garden and a Colonial garden.

Virginia Zoological Park

3500 Granby Street

Encompassing 53 acres of established historic Southern magnolias, live oaks and other specimens, the park is located just four miles from this year’s tour area and is the site of many formal and abstract gardens. Dating back to 1901, zoo horticulture has had a special place at this location, supporting and showcasing animal habitats with native, ornamental and exotic plants. A few of the present theme gardens include fruit orchards, shade gardens, rain gardens, an African vegetable garden and handicap-accessible gardens. The horticultural center includes a formal garden of roses, annuals and perennials.

4200 Oceanfront Avenue

A basket weave patterned brick pathway leads to the front door of this oceanfront home steeped in history. Built in 1939, this white clapboard cottage was once the summer home of General George S. Patton and his family. The current owner, a former equestrian and needlepoint embroiderer, has collected bronze statues and artwork of horses, which decorate the living room and nearby dens. Hand sewn pillows and wall coverings, needlepointed by the owner, are displayed as well. Persian rugs, found on travels around the world, are timeless accents that enhance the polished oak floors. Asian lamps, ginger jars, and heirloom china provide interest throughout.

Two large Asian screens from the original Historic Cavalier Hotel flank the living room window and may be recognized by residents. A baby grand piano commands attention in the den. Large, oversized windows in the back of the home provide an abundance of natural light as well as breathtaking views of the nearby Atlantic Ocean.

Linda Daniel, owner

4810 Holly Road

This Palladian style home, constructed just four years ago, was inspired by Venetian architecture from the early 1500s that the owners admired while traveling in Italy. Large windows and doors are strategically placed to allow natural light to flood the interior. Visitors will enter through an oversized front door into an expansive living room filled with Italian antiques and Persian rugs. Cream and gray walls, wide baseboards and dark stained acacia floors provide an elegant backdrop for Venetian glass collections. Wrought iron accents on light fixtures and antique wall sconces continue the theme. Kitchen cabinets painted with a pale gray glaze, complement the Calcutta gold marble countertops while a whimsical star patterned tile floor adds a sense of drama to the kitchen. The first-floor bedroom suite features an antique tapestry wall hanging collected by the owners. Mrs. Sundin is an antique dealer. Her flair for finding unusual pieces has created a unique home.

1253 North Bay Shore Drive

A weeping willow and spacious gardens invite visitors to this bayside paradise built in 1959 and renovated in 2018. The stained, vertical siding home with a black tin roof can now be described as contemporary. The great room, dining area and adjacent kitchen are ideal spaces for entertaining. Rich-stained wooden panels adorn the ceiling of the pitched roof in the massive great room, providing interest and originality to the space. Poured concrete slabs face the fireplace and wall-to-wall matching benches below. Carved wooden ducks and owls, purchased by the owners on a visit to Nantucket, were designed by a Virginia Beach artist, and flank either side of the fireplace. Persian rugs and antique artwork provide color and texture above acid washed, wood floors. The kitchen sports open shelving, Alno cabinetry, and a sleek, black stainless-steel bar that seats six to eight people. Grey veined quartz countertops complement the concrete accents in the overlooking great room. A wall of glass doors provides an abundant amount of natural light. A spacious rectangular

Visitors will walk on a brick-lined drive-way with dogwoods on either side towards a gardener’s paradise. This bayside home, built in 1953, is surrounded by a lush landscape of mature trees and flowering shrubs. Boxwoods, hydrangeas, azaleas, and camellias are just a sampling of the rich landscape in this lovingly cared for garden. A slate path leads to an enchanting “Secret Garden” perched on a circular arrangement of moss-covered bricks. It is an oasis for birds who frolic and bathe in the birdbath located there. Benches are dotted throughout the outdoor space, for visitors to stop for a moment and enjoy the peace and serenity. Mature oaks command attention along the waterfront, behind the home, and enhance the breathtaking views of the Linkhorn Bay. Molly and Peter III, owners

MORNING TOUR: 10 A.M. TO 1 P.M. AFTERNOON TOUR: 1 TO 4 P.M.

The Williamsburg Garden Club, part of 48 member clubs that host Historic Garden Week annually, invites visitors to “A Walk in the Park.” This a self-guided tour of Bicentennial Park with docent-led tours of Colonial Williamsburg gardens and the Custis Square Archaeology Project. Tour ticket includes the Art Museums of Colonial Williamsburg and a guided tour with docent-led tours of Colonial Williamsburg gardens and the Custis Square Archaeology Project. Tour ticket includes the Art Museums of Colonial Williamsburg and a guided tour with docent-led tours of Colonial Williamsburg gardens and the Custis Square Archaeology Project.

The walk from the front gate of this charming garden begins with a stone path that leads visitors on an outer promenade brimming with plantings that include Yoshino cherry, American elm, Chinese pistache and Eastern redbud trees. Seeking variety in shades of green and plant textures, the back and north borders are a mix of plantings that thrive in the local climate. Layered shrubs effectively shield the street view while dressing the brick walls that form the interior parterre garden. The parterre is entered through an iron gate and is a composition of six geometric shapes. Each section of the parterre can be closely examined by tracing the crossed brick walkways. Yaupon hedges are tightly clipped to form each design segment which enclose white Amarante roses, airy yaupon holly and sweetfern trees, as well as Japanese privet that have been pruned in the shape of whimsical lollipops. Don’t miss the view from the elevated porch where the parterre’s design can be appreciated as representing the Scottish saltire (flag). The garden’s brick walls also contain a brick and slate garden house that is both functional and elegant. The appearance of red tulips in this beloved outdoor oasis is celebrated annually as a first sign of spring in the area. Dixie and Hank Wolf, owners

Bicentennial Park
320 West Court Street

Designed by renowned local landscape architect Carlton Abbott (brother to two Williamsburg Garden Club members) and built by the City of Williamsburg to celebrate America’s Bicentennial in 1976, this city park is surrounded by a brick walkway. Benches and mature shade trees offer the perfect place to sit and read or meet a friend. Since 2015 a local non-profit arts organization has been working with the City of Williamsburg to commission artwork for the park. Local GCV members will be inspired by the following pieces to create flower installations throughout the park for Historic Garden Week:
• Cedar Waxwing No. 914 by Virginia artist, David Turner, is an 8-foot-tall bronze statue depicting a bird lightly perched and dining on a chokeberry branch.
• A Slice in Time, by Kristen Visbal of Lewes, Delaware, depicts a young boy chopping wood and was inspired by the story of a young George Washington chopping down his father’s cherry tree.
• Girl Chasing Butterflies is also by Kristen Visbal. For this piece the artist used the same young model as she used for her more famous work, Fearless Girl, that depicts a young girl facing down the bull on Wall Street.
• Fraga Magna Rotabila (Large Strawberry Cart) by Williamsburg artist Merrilee Cleveland depicts a strawberry as a symbol of love in a colorful polychromed bronze.
• Additionally, local GCV members will create floral installations for the park’s Blue Star Monument honoring U.S. Service men and women. Especially for Historic Garden Week, the park will temporarily host loaned artworks to inspire floral designs.

“Transportation Fun” Court Street

Antique cars, a vintage sleigh, a canoe, and a soap box derby racer are just a few of the vehicles visitors will find on the lane between Bicentennial Park and the Art Museums of Colonial Williamsburg. Local GCV members will decorate vehicles with floral designs that range from whimsical to extraordinary. In addition, comical directional markers will provide inspiration for photo opportunities in this setting of mechanical, motorized fun.

Guided Walking Tour of Gardens of Colonial Williamsburg

Gardens have always played a major role in portraying life in the 18th century in Virginia. The featured gardens, Taliaferro-Cole, Bryan, Durfee, Blair herb garden and the Bruton Parish Church herb garden are part of a guided walking tour starting each hour from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tours will start in front of the Blair herb garden at 331 West Duke of Gloucester Street. Learn the many ways to use flowers, fruits, herbs, and foliage in your own gardens.

Custis Square Archaeology Project
301 South Nassau Street
See first-hand and learn about the multi-year archaeological exploration of the four-acre home and early 18th-century gardens of John Custis IV (1678-1746). There were few early Williamsburg residents as colorful as John Custis IV, Martha Washington's first father-in-law. Visitors will have the opportunity to learn what has been revealed about this wealthy planter and statesman, as well as see the techniques archaeologists use to understand historic gardens. By uncovering the remains of a long-hidden landscape and ornamental grounds, this site has added significantly to our understanding of early American gardening.

National Center for State Courts
300 Newport Avenue
Nestled between the William & Mary Law School and City of Williamsburg's leafy Bicentennial Park is the National Center for State Courts (NCSC), a non-partisan organization that helps state courts and courts abroad operate more efficiently through counsel, research, education, and professional association management. NCSC, which celebrated its 50th anniversary in 2021, started with an idea from former U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren Burger that there should be “a national center for state courts.” Only a few months later, the Center was born. Today, with additional offices in Denver, Washington, D.C. and Arlington, Va., NCSC also helps courts in Central and South America, the Caribbean, Europe, Africa, and Asia. The center’s work includes advancements in dozens of court administration areas as diverse as jury management and caseload management to courtroom security and guardianship. Since March 2020, NCSC has helped courts in the United States and internationally navigate the challenges posed by the coronavirus pandemic. This is a limited and special opportunity. Small tours of 20 each will take place at 10 a.m., 1 and 3 p.m.

Adams Garden
North Boundary St. & Richmond Rd. Corner
Dedicated in 1986 in memory of Gregory S. Adams, a member of the William & Mary Class of 1981. In celebration of the 75th anniversary of Historic Garden Week, the Williamsburg Garden Club donated restoration funds and continues its support of the garden, which is maintained by William & Mary.

Bruton Parish Church and Grounds
201 West Duke of Gloucester St.
Formed in 1674, Bruton Parish is an active congregation in the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Virginia. The third and present building was completed in 1715. Historic Garden Week proceeds assisted with churchyard restorations in 1936, 1955 and 2003. Closes at 4 p.m.

Mattey’s Garden, 301 Scotland St.
Located at Matthew Whaley Elementary School adjacent to the brick walls surrounding the Governor’s Palace in Colonial Williamsburg, this children’s garden was a gift from the Williamsburg Garden Club to the City in honor of its 300th anniversary.

Reveley Garden at William & Mary
Legacy Circle Parking Lot
Named in honor of the university’s 27th president, Taylor Reveley, and his wife, Helen, this new project of the Garden Club of Virginia is a partial restoration of a 1926 Charles Gillette garden. Designed as part of the Beaux-Arts campus plan, but never built, the new garden reflects Gillette’s original intentions allowing room for students to move freely for rest, study or socializing. New trees expand the Baldwin Memorial Collection of Woody Species and were selected by the Conservator of Botanical Collections and Associate Director of Gardens and Grounds.

Williamsburg Botanical Garden
5537 Centerville Rd.
Established in 2005 as a demonstration garden sustainable in our Virginia Coastal Plain region, it is a haven for both flora and fauna in a protected, yet natural setting.

Virginia Historic Landmark and/or National Register of Historic Places

HOSTED BY THE HAMPTON ROADS GARDEN CLUB AND THE HUNTINGTON GARDEN CLUB
HOSTED BY HUNTING CREEK GARDEN CLUB AND THE GARDEN CLUB OF ALEXANDRIA

TICKET INCLUDES ADMISSION TO 4 PROPERTIES AND 2 GARDENS:

The Village House
208 Bacon Street

Constructed on an empty lot in the Historic District during 2019-2020, the owner built a ¼ inch scale model, including miniature furniture, before construction to confirm his architectural and interior design. The white-planked home features deep double Charleston-style porches with a view of historic battlefields and the Yorktown Victory Monument. Interior includes an open floor plan with coffered ceilings in the living and dining rooms. Family artwork and nautical antiques are displayed throughout. A “Retirement Garden” is a work in progress, with the goal of easy care. Liz and Tom Tragle, owners

Stolon Rock (Garden Only)
102 Cornwallis Road

Extensive gardens surround a 1924 Craftsman bungalow that has been renovated over thirty years by the current owners and maintains much of the original architecture. The owner began designing what is primarily a shade garden in 1988. Incorporating a large collection of stone, it features over 30 species of ferns and five species of hydrangeas, with perennials and a vegetable garden integrated into the ornamental landscape. The garden’s name includes “stolon,” a part of a fern. A highlight is the registered Newton Apple Tree, given to the owner for his help in propagating these trees at William & Mary. Debbie and Jim Orband, owners

114 Church Street

Completely renovated in 2013, the home was originally built in the late 1890s. Current owners used a photograph of the home from 1903, to guide them as they salvaged the original stairwell and interior doors, moved windows back to their proper position and stabilized the foundation and walls. Salvaged joists were remade into kitchen countertops and original siding. Roof timbers from the kitchen dependency were uncovered and serve as decorative elements. Original artwork by owner/artist, Tenley Raithel, is on display. The owners applied their artistic sensibilities to their gardens, designing “rooms” that range from a formal boxwood garden to raised vegetable beds. Tenley and Larry Raithel, owners

The Yorktown Custom House
410 Main Street

Built c. 1720 by Richard Ambler to house his operations as the customs collector for the York River district, encompassing the York, Pocosson and Piankatank Rivers, Mobjack Bay and other harbors, the Custom House sits at the corner of Main and Read Street. His office and storehouse were a short distance from the then busy waterfront, the largest deep-water port between Charleston and Philadelphia in the Colonies. The Ambler family operated as customs agents until the Revolutionary War, when British troops were barracked there. In the Civil War, it served as headquarters for General J.B. Magruder. In 1882, Dr. Daniel McNorton, an African American physician, bought the Custom House for his office on the first floor, with a school for African American children on the second floor. In 1924, the Comte de Grasse Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution purchased the Custom House and raised the money to renovate it under the direction of noted architect W. Duncan Lee. Two brick dependencies, a surrounding brick wall and a colonial herb garden planted with boxwoods grown from cuttings from Monticello, Mount Vernon and other historic Virginia properties complement this historic structure. Comte de Grasse Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, owner

Windward on the York
1109 Moore House Road

Perched high on a 60-foot cliff with commanding views of the York River, a fountain and a large weeping yaupon holly in the front courtyard welcome visitors. The transitional-style home was built in 1997 after the family moved 19 times during Mr. Butterfoss’ military career. Inside, the cathedral ceiling and large Palladian windows bring the view into the living room, featuring a floor to ceiling fireplace. Outdoor living is the focus. There is a large covered paved patio and a pool with a stairway to the dock far below. Japanese-inspired walkways lead through gardens of boxwood, Chindo Viburnum, magnolia, camellias, and gardenias. Battlefields, vineyards, and B&Bs co-mingle in the bucolic towns of the Shenandoah Valley and the Virginia Piedmont.

Battlefields and B & Bs characterize the bucolic towns of the Shenandoah Valley and the Virginia Piedmont, a region awash with natural beauty. With several institutions of higher education in the Valley, visitors can enjoy sites straight from history class, not to mention unique shopping and breathtaking scenery.

The West region itinerary includes two options on Historic Garden Week’s first Saturday. Travel through the farmlands of Orange County in the Virginia Piedmont. Visitors will enjoy a site inspired by the 16th century gardens of Villa Vignamaggio in Chianti, Italy, as well as the early 18th century French designed (and later, English, and American inspired) Annie duPont Garden at Montpelier. Additional featured properties include a Colonial farm garden and a contemporary flower arranger’s garden. Horticultural enthusiasts will be immersed in the design, evolution, and history of the gardens.
mission to restore and preserve Virginia’s historic gardens, head to Monticello. Its winding-walk flower border was restored by the Garden Club of Virginia in 1939-41. Nearly 75 years later, tour proceeds helped restore “Kitchen Road,” the functional and visual link between Mulberry Row and the main house.

On Sunday visitors are in for a special treat. Hidden in the Albemarle County foothills lies Brown’s Cove, settled over 275 years ago. Three of the Coves remaining family homes and gardens will be open for Historic Garden Week for the first time, along with Turkey Ridge, the modern home of one of Innisfree’s founders. Innisfree is a therapeutic farm community founded in the early 1970s. This driving tour offers something to inspire everyone: historic and contemporary architecture and interiors, original dependencies and modern farm buildings, botanical and sculpture gardens, and equestrian facilities, rolling farmland, and sweeping mountain views.

Monday offers multiple choices, including trips to award-winning wineries and breweries nearby. To make a direct connection between Historic Garden Week and GCV’s mission to restore and preserve the two-acre formal terraced Annie duPont Garden in the early 1990s.

Past Historic Garden Week proceeds enabled the Garden Club of Virginia (GCV) to assist in restoring the two-acre formal terraced Annie duPont Garden in the early 1990s.
Take scenic Rt. 29 southwest about an hour to Lynchburg on Tuesday. This driving tour, primarily in the heart of the fashionable Boonsboro neighborhood, offers something for every visitor. From a 1929 Tudor to a 1997 Scandinavian farmhouse nestled on 120 acres on the western edge of Boonsboro, visitors will experience a range of styles in gardens, architecture, and décor. Gracious pools and patios, meandering woodland paths, and gardens rich with native species are exterior highlights. The tour also includes a special floral exhibit at Randolph College’s Maier Museum.

While in Lynchburg, don’t miss the Anne Spencer Garden, a Virginia Historic Landmark, and site of special programs celebrating the 90th anniversary of the founding of the Negro Garden Club of Virginia. A Harlem Renaissance poet, Anne, along with her husband, hosted many nationally known Harlem Renaissance visitors, civil rights leaders, and prominent African Americans during their lifetime.

On Wednesday, head north towards Harrisonburg, a visitor-friendly college town surrounded by an abundance of natural wonders. Start at the CrossKeys Vineyard, the tour headquarters, then enjoy access to four properties, including a private home perched on a hilltop with stunning 360-degree views of the Shenandoah Valley and surrounding mountains.

Old or new, small or large, the properties in the West region showcase owners’ engagement with the land, respect for history and a commitment to conservation.

  791 Morven Drive, Charlottesville
  The land was part of the original 1730 Carter family land grant and was known to Thomas Jefferson as “Indian Camp,” which he purchased for his “adoptive son” Col. William Short in 1795, who in turn sold Morven to David Higginbotham in 1813. The three-story brick manor house at Morven, was built c.1820 in the late Georgian/Federal style by builder Martin Thacker for David Higginbotham. Its 19th century ambience remains even after 21st century additions and interior renovations. The last private owner, the late John Kluge, gave the property to the University of Virginia Foundation in 2001. Extraordinary grounds feature the formal and cutting gardens renovated by Annette Hoyt Flanders in the 1930s. Boxwood, tulips, phlox, lilacs, and deutzia, among other shrubs and perennials, fill a series of distinct garden rooms. Notable trees include centuries old Osage orange, a state champion Chinese chestnut, and several mature magnolia, oak, and ash. A Kluge addition in the mid-1990s, an authentic Japanese garden, provides a serene and unique experience, and is open on April 23 to HGW visitors for the first time this spring, weather permitting. Morven was a charter property open for the first Historic Garden Week in Virginia in 1929 and is listed on the National Register of Historic Places and on the Virginia Landmarks Register. morven.virginia.edu

- Mount Fair Farm
  4585 Slam Gate Road
  Recognized as a Virginia and National Historic Landmark, Mount Fair Farm is one of the largest and best-preserved antebellum farms in Albemarle County. The grandest of the Brown family homes, Mount Fair was built by William T. Brown c. 1848 and combines Greek Revival and Jeffersonian details. Set on an imposing rise, the house is approached by a scenic stroll from the parking field below. A bridge and crushed-stone path lead past a pond and historic dependencies, including an icehouse and smokehouse. A mown path and rustic stairway provide access to the graveyard for the enslaved, where the recent removal of an invasive understorey revealed over 120 individual burials on 1.5 acres set within a grove of hackberry, cherry, black locust, and dogwood. The role of these enslaved individuals in the development both of Mount Fair and of our nation, has been memorialized in a bronze plaque placed at the entrance of the restored cemetery. A mix of spring annuals alongside early daffodils surrounds the entrance to the home. A one-story porch leads into a finely embellished entrance hall with a two-story staircase. Two large formal rooms feature distinctive Greek Revival mantels, beyond which lie the family’s modern kitchen and family room. An atrium opens onto a formal water garden, where deutzia ‘Yukon Snowflake’ will be setting its white bud along the path. A nearby cutting garden features daffodils, violas, Dianthus ‘Vivid Bright Light,’ Phlox subulata ‘Emerald Blue,’ Nepeta ‘Prussian Blue’ and peonies putting on spring growth for May flowers, with several blueberry shrubs in bloom. Mount Fair’s extensive facilities ornament the rolling landscape and include equestrian barns, an indoor riding arena, orchards, and an apiary, all surrounded by stunning mountain views. The greenhouse will be open. Its garden features native plants and vegetables, including green and purple asparagus; spring greens, garlic ‘Music’ and ‘German Red.’ The herb beds behind the greenhouse include violas, ‘Pink Marvel’ salvia, chives, and Muscari latifolium blooming in addition to overflowing containers. mountfairfarm.com

- Innisfree Village: Walnut Level and Turkey Ridge
  5505 Walnut Level Road
  Innisfree was founded in 1971 and has grown to encompass 550 acres and houses more than 175 coworkers, volunteer caregivers, and long-term staff. At the center of the Village are cooperative, therapeutic workstations, including a bakery, community kitchen, farm, vegetable garden, herb garden, weavery, woodshop, “free school” and art studio. Coworkers and their caregivers work side-by-side in workstations, producing many creative, useful items, which will be available in an on-site market. Built by Bezaleel Brown

IMPORTANT
Narrow tour-area roads can accommodate 32 passenger buses or smaller. Not accessible to persons with disabilities and involves extensive walking, steps, and uneven, sloping terrain; walking shoes are recommended. Innisfree Village and Mount Fair Farm are extensive properties; use their websites to enhance your visit.

NEW TO HISTORIC GARDEN WEEK!
First time a property has been featured

Virginia Historic Landmark and/or National Register of Historic Places in 1810, Walnut Level is a traditional Federal style brick I-house, which still has its original wainscoting. An early real estate ad cites, “This ancestral home has seven beautifully proportioned rooms, each with its own fireplace and hand-carved mantel, mellowed old wide heart pine floors and original locks.” Today, it is home to staff members at Innisfree Village, a residential community of adults with intellectual disabilities. Turkey Ridge, the private home and garden of one of Innisfree’s founders, will also be open and accessible by trolley and buses. The home was built in 2000 “from the inside out” with an organic plan that enhances the views and engages the garden. The large interior was designed to showcase the homeowner’s art collection. The homeowner has worked in close collaboration with gardener David Phipps for eighteen years to create an exuberant garden that is like an enormous diorama with life-size bronze wild animals and birds by noted sculptor, Walter Matia. The house rests on a ridge in harmony with its surroundings, pond views, and vistas of the Blue Ridge Mountains. Gardens skirt Turkey Ridge, with the most extensive located at the rear of the home as the land gently slopes away. Along crushed stone paths there is a vast variety of plants and shrubs designed to serve birds and pollinators alike. Whimsical touches like a hopscotch garden reveal the homeowner’s goal of creating an interactive garden to be enjoyed by all. Grasses and tall perennials sway in the breeze, adding soothing motion to the space. The homeowner encourages visitors to sit and rest on the many outdoor chairs and benches. innisfreevillage.org

Brightberry Farm

5626 Browns Gap Turnpike

Built in 1790, Brightberry is the oldest of the three Brown family homes. Completely renovated in 1989 by the current owners, the house retains its original floors and much of the original woodwork. Chimneys were rebuilt with original bricks – many contain chicken, deer, and dog imprints -- and the floor plan was reworked to accommodate a modern-day lifestyle. At the heart of this old but modernized house is the kitchen, which was redesigned for butchering as well as canning. Rooms were opened and French doors and windows added to bring sunlight into this once dark, dank, and dreary house. The homeowner’s passion for hunting white tail deer and wild turkey is exhibited by the many trophies adorning the walls. All the stone walls and stairs, both dry stack and mortared, used old foundation stones and stone sourced from the property. Local stone mason and artist, Mike Firkaly, worked on and off for over a decade building the walls and patios. The garden beds are lined with old brick made on-site and salvaged from four chimneys. All trees and shrubs were planted by the current owners. The large American boxwood were relocated 30 years ago to make room for new construction. The homeowners have planted many hardwood trees, conifers, and a large assortment of their favorite under story trees, flowering shrubs, and perennials. Flower beds and planters contain an array of spring blooming flowers. The garden features oaks, maples, crepe myrtles, yew, conifers, hydrangeas, holllies, azaleas, lilacs, and an orchard of fruit trees. From the restored enslaved cemetery high atop the hill near the parking area, visitors will enjoy the best vantage point for the pond. Its banks are planted with a variety of willows and grasses to promote its abundant aquatic life.

Monticello

931 Thomas Jefferson Pkwy.

Designed by and home to Thomas Jefferson, founder of UVA, author of the Declaration of Independence, and third President of the U.S. The winding walk flower border was restored by GCV in 1939-41 and Mulberry Row in 2015. monticello.org/gardenweek

Highland, 2050 James Monroe Pkwy.

Home of James Monroe, the fifth president of the U.S., near Thomas Jefferson’s Monticello in Charlottesville. Purchased by Monroe in 1793, the property was home to the Monroe family for 25 years. Highland interprets the period of Monroe’s public career, including the historic experiences of enslaved African Americans who lived on the property. highland.org

Pavilion Gardens at the University of Virginia

The GCV restored the gardens and their surrounding serpentine walls with proceeds from Historic Garden Week, beginning with the West Pavilion gardens in 1947. The West Pavilion Gardens were restored between 1947 and 1953 and the East Lawn between 1960 and 1965. TICKET INCLUDES ADMISSION TO THE FOLLOWING 2 PRIVATE PROPERTIES AND 2 ADDITIONAL SITES:

Edith J. Carrier Arboretum, Harrisonburg

A woodland sanctuary on the James Madison University campus, this arboretum is a public urban garden and forested greenspace that preserves native plant species, provides opportunities for research, and promotes knowledge of the botanical and natural world for people of all ages. The Arboretum serves as an outdoor classroom, evolving habitat, native wildflower preserves, green corridor, and a source for native trees, perennials, wildflowers, and ferns. The grounds and education center consist of 125 acres and 3.5 miles of trails. The arboretum also serves as a getaway to engage in restoration recreation.

4214 Fort Lynne Road, Rockingham

Perched on a hilltop with stunning 360-degree views of the Shenandoah Valley and surrounding mountains, this 3,700 square foot modern home sited on ten acres was built in 2007. The unique round design allows multiple solar arrays on the roof to generate electricity and to heat water for the radiant floor heating system. There are grapevines, a large fruit orchard, a vegetable garden and lots of open space to enjoy the outdoors. A nearly full wrap-around deck gives choices for enjoying the sun, the breeze, the birds, and the stars year around. Single-level living for the owners is on the main floor with guest accommodations, a gym and a walk-out to a covered patio on the lower level. Extensive exterior doors, moldings and built-ins of spruce, fir, maple, black walnut, oak, and cherry wood provide a warm environment in a completely open floor plan. A central loft in the main living area is accessed by an open spiral staircase. Oversized windows and glass doors all around let the outside in to the delight of the residents and their houseplants. Of note in the kitchen is a colorful tile design above the induction stove. Along the west side of the home is a rock water feature with a waterfall. Extensive perennial gardens and shrubbery wrap the exterior in color. Marianne and Bill Saunders, owners

La Petite’ Valley Retreat and Cottage

While downsizing the owners designed the interior and exterior to create functional cottage living while promoting the fullest of garden enhancements to be enjoyed during this part of their lives. With a long-term vision and plan, they designed a landscape and garden environment which will be enjoyed to its fullest upon maturity. The fenced side yard features a Mediterranean-style patio. It contrasts the rear yard, which includes a dry creek bed enhanced by young plants and trees, creating a country-style setting. An extended back porch is graced with a pergola and a collection of large potted plants. Comfortable furnishings create a relaxing setting for entertaining. Chris Chisley and Chuck Biles, owners

Green Gables and Frieden Farms

Built in 1911 from black walnut wood harvested on the farm, Green Gables is a lovingly restored three-bedroom, three bath house with a chef’s kitchen. The hardwood floors are original to the house, as are many of the doors. The front wooden staircase is also original and has a large Hubbardton Forge chandelier in the front entrance. The owners chose button switch- es throughout the house in keeping with the time in which the house was built. Of particular interest is a wall mural at the top of the front staircase depicting the owners’ granddaughter looking down from a hill at Green Gables. The interior is furnished with family pieces including a small rolltop desk and a rocking chair that once belonged to the owner’s grandmother. Behind the main residence is the original wash house. It has been restored with wood boards from an old granary room in one of the family’s barns. A door frame still indicates the year’s harvest count by a local farmer from the 1930s. Frieden Farms is a working farm owned by the Beam family. Green Gables L.L.C; Gerald (Gerry) and Carolyn Beam, owners

TICKET INCLUDES ADMISSION TO THE FOLLOWING 4 PRIVATE HOMES AND GARDENS, THE DOROTHY CRANDALL BLISS BOTANIC GARDEN AND THE MAIER MUSEUM FEATURING FLORAL ARRANGEMENTS INTERPRETING WORKS OF ART FROM THE MUSEUM COLLECTION. IN ADDITION, TOUR TICKET ALLOWS ACCESS TO 5 NEARBY PLACES OF INTEREST, AS WELL AS THE ANNE SPENCER GARDEN, AND 2 LOCATIONS AT RANDOLPH COLLEGE FOR A TOTAL OF 12 SITES:

- 236 Irvington Springs Road
  Situated on 120 acres that was once the site of a working dairy farm, the Moomaw farmhouse was built in 1997 to accommodate a busy family of eight. As their children grew older, the owners added onto the original house creating a sprawling, functional family home in pure Scandinavian style with a large kitchen as the central focus. Designed to accommodate multiple chefs and create an open space for gathering, the kitchen features extensive leatherized granite countertops and warm wood cabinetry blending rustic charm with modern minimalism. Reclaimed Belgian cobblestones from old Lynchburg city streets are used inside and out. Offset from the front of the house is a patio featuring an in-ground stone fountain and handmade cedar pergola, which in the summer is covered with ‘Arcata Pink Globe’ roses and Virginia clematis. In 2016, the homeowner, a founding member of Blue Ridge Conservation, converted the entry cottage garden into a low-maintenance meadow filled with native grasses and perennials, creating an extensive ecosystem for pollinators. The backyard, viewed from one of several porches and patios, is a lush woodland filled with dogwood, bluebells, phlox, and hellebores. While part of the property known as Irvington Spring Farm has welcomed tour visitors in the past, this is the first time the family’s home and personal garden has been showcased on Historic Garden Week. Kaye and Ben Mooman, owners

- 4941 Locksview Road
  Based on the George Wythe House in Williamsburg, this home was designed by the homeowners and built in 1995. The two-story, brick Georgian honors colonial architecture while incorporating modern conveniences. An expansive sunroom, the new heart of the home, and a deck overlooking the garden were added in 2013. The homeowner’s artistic eye is evident in collections of porcelain as well as French and English antiques throughout the home. An extensive display of paintings by Mrs. Richards: a skilled portrait, landscape, and botanical artist, provides a connection to the garden beyond. The sloping backyard is terraced with mortared fieldstone walls. Sun-loving perennials, including peony, lavender, and columbine, border the garden and complement recently planted boxwood shrubs. One of the first homes in Lynchburg to suffer the boxwood blight in 2016, the homeowners removed 62 diseased boxwoods and replanted new cultivars to blend seamlessly with the existing landscape. Beyond the terrace, a shade garden planted in honor of a friend leads to an Arts and Crafts style cedar garden shed with a standing seam metal roof constructed by Mr. Richards. Lisa and Jim Richards, owners

- 1912 Quarry Road
  Located on a quiet street, on land that was once a quarry, this elegant Cape Cod, built by Mr. O’Brien’s parents in the early 1950s, remains a loving family home. Painted a cheery yellow, the extruded mortared brick and clapboard accents add to the home’s charm and character. Tastefully decorated...
Gracefully situated on an estate lot, this Tudor Revival house, built in 1928 as one of the first homes on Langhorne Road, opens its doors to Historic Garden Week for the third time. The home is an excellent example of this medieval style of architecture with its steeply pitched, slate, gabled roof. Asymmetry, handmade textured brick, embedded half-timbers and a brick barrel-arched entryway dominate the façade. Quality craftsmanship continues in the interior of the home. The expansive foyer leads to a custom staircase, making a dramatic statement. A pair of French doors allows sunlight to fill the formal living room and leads to a terrace and bluestone path through symmetrical beds and sculpted hedges. The recently refurbished stone and tile-edged pool and tennis court provide ample play space for owners and their guests. Tucked away in the corner of the yard is a pool house and covered porch, providing more space for outdoor leisure. Recently purchased by a young family, this premier property is being gradually restored to its full potential. Manisha and Hunter Wyne, owners

1503 Langhorne Road

Randolph College

Dorothy Crandall Bliss Botanic Garden, Norfolk Avenue

Tucked within a brick-walled enclosure is a secret garden. This delightful, informal botanic garden was the dream of Dorothy Crandall Bliss, former Professor of Biology at the College and native species enthusiast. The botanic retreat, established in 1994, is home to many Piedmont species gathered by Dr. Bliss and members of the local chapter of the Virginia Native Plant Society. Over 150 specimens thrive in the one-half acre garden graced by a serene water lily pond. Students and visitors alike start their native plant exploration at the gated entrance of the garden following winding terraced leaf-mulched paths. Pollinators flourish given the wealth of plant material with four seasons in which to feed and nest.

Randolph College

The Maier Museum of Art

1 Quinlan Street

Randolph College and members of both Hillside and Lynchburg Garden Clubs, two of the 48 member clubs across Virginia that make up the Garden Club of Virginia, have collaborated to showcase a must-see exhibition of floral arrangements interpreting four selections from the private collection at the Maier Museum of Art at Randolph College. The museum’s strengths lie in its impressive collection of permanent works of American impressionism and early 20th-century Realism on display. Showcased artists include Ben Shan, Arthur B. Davies, John Sloan, Georgia O’Keeffe, Robert Rauschenberg, and Jacob Lawrence, among others. Docents will be present in the galleries throughout the day to speak about the floral interpretations.

REaltORS®
Orange County

SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 2022, 10 A.M. TO 5 P.M.

There is no need to go to Europe for this Grand Tour of gardens. Travel through the farmlands of Orange County in the central Virginia Piedmont against a backdrop of the Blue Ridge Mountains and relish this journey through time and space. Visitors will enjoy touring a garden inspired by the 16th century gardens of Villa Vignamaggio in Chianti, Italy, the early 18th century French designed (and later, English, and American inspired) Annie duPont Garden at Montpelier and the Garden at Bassett House, a mid-21st century Asian garden, featured for the first time. Additional properties include a colonial farm garden and a flower arrangers’ contemporary garden. Horticultural enthusiasts will be immersed in the design, evolution, and history of the gardens. This is a garden-only tour.

TICKET INCLUDES ADMISSION TO THE FOLLOWING 4 PROPERTIES:

Tre Sorelle, 1674 North James Madison Highway, Locust Dale
Inspired by Villa Vignamaggio in Tuscany and featured in Kenneth Branagh’s Shakespeare film “Much Ado About Nothing,” this Italian-style landscape was designed in 1998. The wooded property is over thirty-three acres and features a half-acre spring-fed pond and a series of garden rooms which interpret Italian design principles and features. The property is held in a Woodland Conservation Easement. The formal gardens are designed in the Italian style of “green and gray” structural plantings and utilize a series of squares and circles to frame the landscape. Both the house and grounds are laid out on a formal axis with an oak tree original to the property and include an Italian allée or “vicolo” lined with hornbeams. A terraced parterre garden with pea gravel paving and clipped box hedges evokes the Palazzo Pitti in Florence. Ivy-espaliered walls enclose a gravelled herb garden featuring a fig tree and potted lemon trees and showcasing a collection of Italian pots and planters. A tiered Italian fountain is the centerpiece of a wide circular courtyard edged in columnar “Green Giant” arborvitae which gives the effect of Italian pencil cypress. The courtyard yields a serene 360-degree view of the property. Terraced formal gardens and a pool “room” overlook the stocked pond with a wooded backdrop and a dock which features striped gondola mooring poles or “paline de casade.” Sculpture figures prominently in the garden’s design with stone and bronze images of Bacchus, Cupid, and the Tre Sorelle (three sisters) as focal points throughout the landscaped areas. Mr. and Mrs. John J. Spoons, owners

Windrock, 10078 Jacksontown Road, Somerset
A flower arranger’s garden, Windrock was purchased in 1998. The present owners set out to take advantage of the dramatic Blue Ridge Mountain views and provide all season interest and habitat for wildlife and birds. A talented floral designer, the owner has developed the gardens to supply her with a variety of material throughout the seasons. Curved lines and rock features repeat throughout the landscape. Dramatic terraced gardens lead to a stone patio area and pergola planted with variegated canna lilies, dahlias, and daisies in polychrome. A circular, stone-edged, perennial border highlights bulbs, irises, peonies, coreopsis, and salvias

Greenway 48 Madison Mills Lane
Overlooking historic Madison Mills on the Rapidan River, Greenway (previously called Prospect Hill) was built in the late 1700s by Francis Madison, younger brother of President James Madison. In the 1800s, the house was passed on to daughter Catherine Bell Madison Taliaferro, and remains in the family to this day. A Virginia Historic Landmark, Greenway is also listed on the National Register of Historic Places. A typical colonial-era Piedmont farm property with vernacular clapboard house, Greenway retains its original corn crib, an early dairy, and a 1920s barn. A pecan tree punctuates the centuries-old family cemetery which houses the grave of Francis Madison. The late Virginia Quetitzsch, mother of the current owner, was a champion lily grower, achieving renown in the Garden Club of Virginia. A decades-old garden area enclosed in boxwood and dedicated to her prize lilies is currently under restoration. Large boxwoods edge the front entrance, while meandering beds filled with perennials and spring bulbs circle the house. The property features flowering lilacs, magnolia and dogwood trees, a charming shade garden with vine-covered arbor, lily pond, and an informal entrance garden with flowering shrubs, bulbs, and native perennials.

in striking combinations with bold leaf color against the backdrop of the Blue Ridge. Hundreds of specimen trees and flowering and variegated shrubs provide foliage color, berries, and structure for floral arrangements. Unusual varieties include ‘Dragon’s Eye’ pine, umbrella pine, white ash, Chinese pistachio, lace-bark elm, and little-leaf linden which also add bark interest in the garden during the winter months. A mounded area adjacent to the front entrance is playfully named for the designer, “Mount Saint James.” This circular area is ringed in liriope and features sculptural large stones as well as a variety of trees which shine each season. A shaded white garden edges the house with Natchez crepe myrtle, hellebore, and hostas. Lanes leading to the tennis court and stables transition to more informal plantings.

Madison’s horseshoe-shaped, terraced, multi-purpose garden in 1810 and evolved into the duPont family’s English style formal garden in the early 20th century. Annie duPont renewed the garden adding hard-scape, statuary, and boxwood for structure. After Annie’s death, her daughter, Marion duPont Scott, continued the garden’s evolution. She retained noted landscape architect, Charles Gillette, to design the brick parterres in the 1930s. He quieted the center of the garden in the 1950s. Today the garden incorporates thoughtfully designed plantings reflecting its history: vegetables and herbs from the Madison era; perennials such as peonies, iris, daylilies, and bulbs all favored by the duPonds, and Victorian carpet beds adapted for the 21st century. The Garden Club of Virginia assisted Montpelier with restoration projects in 1990 and 2005.

Garden at Bassett House
Note: This garden will be open only from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m.
The Garden at Bassett House sits at the base of a small hill below the house. Created by Carroll K. Bassett, best known as Marion duPont Scott’s racehorse trainer and steeplechase jockey, but also an accomplished gardener and sculptor. Consulting with landscape architect Charles Gillette, his interests led him to design a garden of Asian inspiration, serene and contemplative, with signature design elements such as dry streambeds and stone water features. The winding stone path reveals the garden’s secrets; a statue of Japanese deity Fukurokuju, water bubbling out of a stone, a zigzag stone bridge, and specimen umbrella pine and Japanese maples. This garden, formerly known as the Oriental Garden, is in the Archives of American Gardens at the Smithsonian.

This walking tour encompasses homes and gardens at opposite ends of the spectrum. Baldwin Place, developed in 1866, follows an architecturally cohesive “village” concept, inspired by Colonial Williamsburg, and comprised of charming down-sized homes with cottage-size gardens and open common spaces. In contrast, Waverley Hill, one of Staunton’s grandest mansions, was inspired by Colonial Williamsburg, and comprised of charming down-sized homes with cottage-size gardens and open common spaces.

103 Smithleigh Circle
This charming cottage, built of beaded wood siding with an open-gable cedar shingle roof, shuttered windows, and a board-and-batten attached garage, is nestled beneath leafy trees on a double-corner lot, bordered by a split-rail fence. The study opens onto a cozy brick terrace with pots of seasonal flowers that overlook perennial borders of hydrangeas, ferns, and bird-baths. A pebble pathway leads to a garden gate that opens into a white picket fence enclosure and patio. A gabled board-and-batten garden shed in the corner, flanked by pots of seasonal flowers, adds charm and privacy. Jo Anne Farrell, owner

105 Smithleigh Circle
This L-shaped, two-story house, constructed of brick with complementary beaded wood siding, sits on the rise of a hill overlooking a common green. The house features a low sloping gabled cedar shingle roof with three narrow dormer windows and a horizontal covered porch. An intimate patio, sheltered by a perennial garden and flowering trees, lines the front of a covered way that connects the kitchen to the garage. In back, an open wooden porch, accessed by a perennial-lined slate and pebble walkway, offers a view of ornamental trees, including Carolina silverbell, flowering cherry, dawn redwood, sweetbay magnolia, Hawthorn, and cryptomeria. ### 3001 North Augusta Street
This stately Georgian Revival mansion crowns a hill above Baldwin Place. In 1929, renowned architect William Lawrence Bottomley designed the house for Herbert McKelden and Emily Smith, a former president of the Garden Club of Virginia. Built in Flemish bond using antebellum brick, tall chimneys grace the main block, flanked by matching wings. A hillside drive through a wooded glen with naturalized daffodils and Virginia blue bells leads to the west façade. Landscape architect Arthur Shurcliff, who restored the gardens in Colonial Williamsburg, initiated the garden design, which Alden Hopkins completed. Ongoing restoration includes walkways and gardens that adhere to the original design and include terraced vegetable gardens with cold frames. A new slate terrace and koi pond, as well as a discreetly located swimming pool, complement existing features. Waverley Hill was the first Bottomley house, and the first Colonial Georgian Revival house, listed on the Virginia Landmarks Register. It also appears on the National Register of Historic Places and graced the cover of the 2019 Historic Garden Week Guidebook after initial renovations. Inside, the openings between rooms of this typical Georgian center hall floor plan are aligned perfectly from the library at the far west, through the flower room, dining room, living room, hall, and porch, creating a vista the entire length of the house, a distance of approximately two hundred feet, and ending with an expansive view of the Blue Ridge. Views from the bedrooms on the upper floor, look out upon either the landscaped park or the formal gardens. The current owner, guided by his overall stewardship of the property, has gone to great efforts to retain historic patina and restore original finishes.

Woodrow Wilson Birthplace, Museum & Presidential Library Gardens, 20 North Coalter Street
Built in 1847 as the manse of First Presbyterian Church, this two-story Greek Revival mansion once marked the eastern edge of Staunton. Its siting on a hill accommodates a ground-floor service level with a rear entry, a street-level entrance, and a commanding view of downtown from the upper-level porches. Thomas Woodrow Wilson, 28th President of the United States, was born here on December 28, 1856. The Woodrow Wilson Birthplace Foundation purchased the property in 1938, which President Franklin Roosevelt opened to the public in 1941. Emily Smith, former GCV President, and owner of Waverley Hill, served on the founding board and spearheaded restoration of the house and gardens. In 1933, in an early restoration project, the Garden Club of Virginia engaged landscape architect Charles Gillette to design the terraced gardens. The Foundation and GCV have partnered several times since, including the 1967 brick terrace by Ralph Griswold dedicated to Mrs. Smith. Recently, the Foundation launched an archaeological assessment of previously undocumented areas of the lawn. Garden visits are part of the HGW tour; the house and museum require a separate ticket, purchased on-site.

If staying put seems more appealing, use Richmond as your home base for a week of touring with minimal travel.

If you are looking for an opportunity to see the most homes and gardens with the least amount of travel, consider Richmond, Virginia's capital, as your home base during the first six days of Historic Garden Week. On Saturday, head north just 23 miles to Hanover County.

Celebrating its 300th anniversary, the area delights garden and history enthusiasts alike. Centered on a rolling road dating to the early 1700s, this driving tour follows Old Ridge Road entering the Piedmont. Featured properties include an 18th century church and grounds, three 19th century homes, and a contemporary residence with Colonial flair. Whether you are drawn to rustic, hand-hewn cabins or formal symmetrical gardens, visitors will discover architectural and floral treasures on this delightful tour.

If a southern course beckons, drive about a half hour to the James River Plantations, open together for Historic Garden Week on Saturday, Sunday, and Monday. Three renowned sites and a church established in the early 1600s are located between scenic Rt. 5 and the James River in Charles City. Built in the 1700s by a combination of indentured and enslaved labor, Berkeley, Shirley, and Westover Plantations are Virginia and National Historic Landmarks, working farms, private homes and living links to our country’s past.

Tuesday offers three options. Head to Fredericksburg for a compact walking... tour featuring five private properties near the charming historic downtown. Spend the day meandering streets with towering trees and stunning landscapes, pausing to enjoy plein air artists, demonstrations on horticulture, floral design, and sustainability, or hop on the complimentary trolley for easy access to shops, galleries, and restaurants.

Don’t miss the massive floral installation in-progress throughout the day outside of Kenmore’s front gates. This historic home of George Washington’s sister was the beneficiary of the first Historic Garden Week tours in 1929. Kenmore is celebrating its Centennial in 2022.

Also on Tuesday is a walking and driving tour in Petersburg’s Historic Poplar Lawn District, which began as Fort Henry in 1653. Over the years, the area saw an active military training ground and a racetrack until morphing into an eclectic neighborhood with 154 homes. Four of those homes are showcased and are within walking distance of each other.

Of equal interest on the Petersburg tour are featured properties such as Historic Battersea, listed on the National Register of Historic Places, which has undergone major renovations. This villa is a rare example of Palladian style architecture. In addition, an enchanting woodland garden is included on the tour ticket, as well as Centre Hill Museum, a restoration project of the Garden Club of Virginia, making for a full day.

If staying in Richmond is your preference, begin three consecutive days of touring in distinct neighborhoods with a walking tour in the Rothesay Circle neighborhood, nested on scenic bluffs overlooking the James River. Characterized by sweeping views, expansive lawns, and lush gardens, famed landscape architect Charles F. Gillette once lived there. A quiet oasis in the middle of a bustling city, homeowners hunted quail and rode horses in a bygone era. The neighborhood abuts the long-abandoned Philadelphia quarry, now the site of a private swim club.

On Wednesday, take a walking tour of the Historic Carillon neighborhood, only a mile from Rothesay. Located one block west of Byrd Park, it is named after the Carillon Bell Tower, a World War I Memorial built in 1932. The Carillon is a Virginia Historic Landmark and on the National Register of Historic Places.

This vivacious and diverse neighborhood began as two single-family farms. After the turn of the century, the Carillon area attracted many of Richmond’s prominent families who hired noteworthy architects such as Duncan Lee, Otis Asbury, and landscape architect Charles F. Gillette. Co-hosted by Historic Richmond as well as the four area GCV clubs, this tour showcases five private properties built from 1889 to 2000.

Also offered on Wednesday, and only an hour and a half away by car, is the Northern Neck tour, spotlighting Northumberland County. Framed by Mill and Wilkins Creeks, Northumberland’s Mundy Point offers insight into its present and historical past. Invading British troops entered here to burn and pillage much of the Northern Neck during the War of 1812. Visitors will pass farms and observe crab pots and oyster beds that still characterize the area, harkening a time when watermen and farmers supported canneries, packinghouses, and grist mills.

Open for Historic Garden Week for the first time, the five properties on this shuttle bus tour showcase a range of architect-designed homes situated on large pieces of property, each with expansive water views. Landscaping ranges from natural woodlands and farm settings to more formal gardens.

On Thursday, enjoy the final day of Richmond’s tour of the neighborhood bordered by Olde Locke Lane and Westmoreland Place. Both areas include some of the city’s... most intriguing houses. From classic 18th-century Georgian homes to Mediterranean-inspired villas, they blend landscapes on a grand scale with stately architecture. This walking tour features three private properties.

The following day, extend your vacation in Richmond by visiting local recipients of Historic Garden Week funding through the Garden Club of Virginia’s work to preserve and restore historic public gardens in Virginia.

One of the most architecturally significant and visually prominent antebellum residences in downtown was designed in 1845 for Mr. and Mrs. Horace Kent.

Modified and enlarged by Mr. and Mrs. Granville Gray Valentine in 1904, this stately mansion occupies a quarter-block of historic Franklin Street. The Kent-Valentine House has been preserved and the grounds landscaped by the Garden Club of Virginia. Headquarters of the Garden Club of Virginia and Historic Garden Week in Virginia since 1971, it is open to the public on that day only.

Nearby is the Edgar Allen Poe Museum, including a romantic courtyard garden inspired by Poe’s love poems nestled amidst the five-building museum complex, which includes the Old Stone House built in 1737, the oldest surviving dwelling from the original city of Richmond. The Enchanted Garden and four others were restored in 2013 by the Garden Club of Virginia.

It would be impossible to visit all seven local GCV restoration sites in a single day, but Lewis Ginter Botanical Garden is a must see. Enjoy more than 50 acres of gardens, including an extensive perennial garden, an Asian garden, a wetland garden and the Grace Arents Garden, a Victorian landscape restored by the GCV with funding from Historic Garden Week tours. A glass conservatory added in 2003 is the only one of its kind in the mid-Atlantic.

And if you have time, head to Maymont, a 100-acre historic estate and park in the City, where the Garden Club of Virginia restored the ornamental lawn surrounding the home. It now features a shrub labyrinth, restored walkway, specimen trees and rose arbors. In 2006, the GCV replaced an allée of elms that had lined the driveway, all with tour proceeds. Families will delight in the many opportunities to see animals at Maymont too. There are walking paths through native wildlife habitats, an indoor nature center, and a farm.
Ashland - Hanover County

SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 2022
MORNING TOUR 10 A.M. TO 1 P.M., AFTERNOON TOUR 1 TO 4 P.M.

Celebrating its 300th anniversary, Hanover County holds delights for both garden and history enthusiasts alike. Centered on an original rolling road dating to the early 1700s, this driving tour follows Old Ridge Road entering the Piedmont. Meandering through the undulating countryside, each turn unveils vistas of pastures, farmland, and forests. Featured properties include an 18th century church and grounds, three 19th century homes, and a contemporary residence with a colonial flair. Whether you are drawn to rustic, hand-hewn cabins or formal symmetrical gardens, you will discover architectural and floral treasures and cherish your day in the heart of Hanover.

The Fork Church
12566 Old Ridge Road

With deep roots in the colonial history of Hanover County, this church traces its beginnings to St. Martin’s Parish, which was carved from the western reaches of St. Paul’s Parish in 1726. Like all Anglican parishes in Colonial America, St. Martin’s Parish was under the oversight of the Bishop of London and may have been named after St. Martin-in-the-Fields in Trafalgar Square, which was being rebuilt at the time. Within the new parish was a wooden frame structure called the “chapel in the forks,” referencing tributaries west of the fork of the Pamunkey that ran into the North and South Anna Rivers. Around 1735, this chapel was replaced by the current brick building. After the Revolutionary War, the Fork Church weathered the Commonwealth’s turn against its formerly established denomination. Under the Bishop of the Diocese of Virginia in the newly organized Episcopal Church, the interior of Fork Church was renovated in 1835 to reflect the sensibilities of the Second Great Awakening. Box pews became bench pews, and the pulpit was moved to overshadow the altar table as the centerpiece of liturgical furniture. This later change was reversed in 1913, providing an example of how a living faith community grows and adapts. Listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Hanover Academy
12184 Old Ridge Road

Sitting on a knoll overlooking rolling fields, Hanover Academy is a Georgian two-story frame home built in 1821. The property is named for the boarding school for young men that operated on this site from 1849 to 1889 as a preparatory school for the University of Virginia. Louis Minor Coleman, the academy’s headmaster, was Professor of Latin at the university. His portrait graces the mantel in the parlor today. During the Civil War, Hanover Academy students served in a C.S.A. artillery unit. The school became a hospital known for its cleanliness and good patient outcomes for the time. The Academy was sold in 1889 to Hillary Pollard Jones, who continued to operate the school until its closing in 1889. Students from as far as New York and Louisiana attended the school. Two original student buildings remain intact on the site. The current owners have done extensive preservation and updating of the property. In 2003 a family room and kitchen were added, followed by a pool area and gardens in 2005. A master bedroom suite was completed in 2014. Ann King and Clark Magnant, owners.

Janeway
11538 Old Ridge Road

On November 28, 1867, Nathaniel Burwell Cooke of The Vineyard, Clarke County, married Jane Mercer Winston, daughter of Edmond Winston of Woodgrove, Hanover County. They built Janeway on property partitioned from the western side of Woodgrove, and lived and farmed there from 1868 until April 30, 1918, when they both succumbed to influenza. Generational ownership of the farm has passed to their daughter, granddaughter, and great-grandsons. The house, which stands in a setting... of fine old trees and shrubs, features the original rectangular layout of two floors over an English basement. It is furnished with family heirlooms, including an extensive library. Dependencies include a kitchen, smokehouse and ash house. Timbers in the kitchen are hand hewn and assembled with wooden dowels. Many 19th century utensils are still in place. Alterations made in 1937 included the addition of the east and west wings, modern bathrooms, and kitchen. Substantial restoration work was done in the 1960s along with the addition of a backyard pool and pond. Renovations completed in 2000 added functional living areas, a second staircase, and outdoor living spaces while maintaining the fabric and ambiance of the original house. Linda and Scott Macdonald, current family stewards

15143 Locust Level Drive
This Georgian Revival house with outbuildings and gardens was inspired by the George Wythe House and grounds in Colonial Williamsburg. Built in 2004, the house reflects the owners’ love of 18th century architecture, formal gardens, and furniture. Various outbuildings have been added over the years, including a woodworking shop, garden house, smokehouse shed, and equipment barn. The house is situated on 20 acres that was originally an open corn field barren of all trees except for surrounding woodlands. The owners have added more than 400 trees and shrubs including boxwoods, hollies, crepe myrtles and magnolias, as well as a formal garden behind the garden house. The house is furnished primarily with reproductions of 18th century American furniture hand crafted over a 30-year period by the owner, who was taught by his father, a cabinetmaker specializing in the reproduction and repair of 18th century furniture. Several of his father’s pieces are also on display. Susan and Terry Davis, owners

† ADMISSION INCLUDES THE FOLLOWING 5 PRIVATE HOMES AND GARDENS AS WELL AS 3 NEARBY HISTORIC GARDENS, 8 LOCATIONS IN TOTAL:

† 720 William Street
This Queen Anne Style Victorian home, built in 1893, was in the same family for 100 years. Before the current owners became its stewards, it served as a commercial flower shop for 23 years. A 2017 renovation took the original interior down to the studs. Many elements were salvaged and incorporated into the renovation which added space to accommodate the owners’ large family and love for entertaining. The home is bright and inviting, combining respect for the home’s history with many modern elements. A walnut border in the original part of the home is used to indicate the original floor plan. The tiger oak fireplace surround in the entry was discovered unused in the house before the renovation began. It now has a place of prominence near an original, hand-carved walnut dining room hutch. Other original elements include the fireplace in the bar, the stained glass above the door to the sun porch and all the windows. The kitchen and day room are a modern addition that can be opened to extend the living space outdoors. Built in 1912, the florist’s workshop has been converted into a guest house. The garden of the adjacent house, 716 William Street, is part of the property available for touring. Heath and Jason Cohen, owners

† 1104 Charles Street
This c. 1910 Colonial Revival house received significant additions in 1980 and 2006. Despite its many modern features and upgrades, the home retains plaster walls in the formal living and dining areas. The original fireplace in the living room and two fireplaces in casual family spaces are gas powered and add both warmth and ambience. Chandeliers in the foyer, living room and dining rooms match the home’s construction in the early 20th century while more modern fixtures complement the additions. This spacious “cook’s kitchen” boasts commercial-grade appliances, a butler’s pantry and expansive granite countertops and island. Just under the vaulted ceiling in the kitchen area and butler’s pantry are display niches that showcase sentimental objects, cookery, and art. Oversized windows and numerous French doors create bright and sunny spaces. A large, bricked patio and woodland garden landscape filled with oak leaf hydrangea, Solomon’s seal, autumn ferns, and hellebores enhance the outdoor entertaining spaces which include a secluded garden to the left of the guest house and a built-in gas grill. Nestled among the property’s many boxwoods and 11 crepe myrtles are smaller red buds, magnolia, and Japanese maple trees. Sharon and Michael Carmody, owners

† 615 Fauquier Street
This Colonial Revival home, situated just off the grand avenue of Fredericksburg, was built in 1909 on land that was originally part of the Kenmore Estate. While it has undergone periods of renovation and refurbishing, much of the original structure remains intact. The wrap-around porch with clay capped Ionic columns welcomes visitors into a home that is modern with a nod to its past. The original front door, transom and sidelight windows open to a generous front hall. Comfortable rooms feature furnishings which complement the open and airy kitchen and family room addition. The owners’ love of art and antiques, collected during their travels and military postings, is evident throughout. The home opens to an outdoor area well suited for entertaining. The expansive double lot is home to a true flower arranger’s garden featuring established plantings, perennials, and annuals. There is also space for a raised vegetable bed during the growing season. One of the city’s few active alley-ways exists behind the home and extends from Washington Avenue to Winchester Street.

1411 Washington Avenue

Built on the lot of the first home built on Washington Avenue, this stately Victorian looks out toward the Mary Washington Monument and boasts a wrap-around porch, 11-foot ceilings on the first floor and an impressive staircase in the foyer. Built 1907-1910 to replace an earlier house that was moved to Winchester Street, it incorporates a separate kitchen building c.1890 into the overall design. The current owners are only the third to call it home. Before moving in, the kitchen and baths were renovated, but many original elements including three sets of pocket doors, the flooring, fireplace mantels and most knobs and hardware were salvaged. Updated light fixtures complement classic features while adding a modern flair. A piano in the drawing room accentuates the glamour of the historic building. A cozy family room features an original mantel over the fireplace and leads into the kitchen which features exposed brick veneer.

Historic Kenmore Plantation and Gardens

One of Virginia’s finest 18th-century houses, Kenmore was built by patriot Fielding Lewis and his wife, Betty, sister of George Washington. The house contains some of the most elaborate decorative plasterwork to survive from colonial America, made by the same unidentified “stucco man” who worked at Mount Vernon. Two garden restorations were completed, in 1941 and 1996, first to restore Betty Lewis’ flower garden and garden wall, later to renovate Betty’s flower garden, install a demonstration herb garden, a wilderness walk, and restore the east terrace on the property. The grounds were the first restoration project of the Garden Club of Virginia with funds from the first Historic Garden Week in 1929. This impressive property is celebrating the 100th anniversary of the Foundation that is its steward. Kenmore is owned and operated by The George Washington Foundation, along with Ferry Farm, George Washington’s boyhood home, across the Rappahannock River from downtown Fredericksburg. James River Plantations

Saturday, April 23 - Monday, April 25, 2022

10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Open together, three historic properties and a church established in the early 1600s celebrate Historic Garden Week on three consecutive days. A special combo ticket allows access to the extensive grounds, gardens, numerous outbuildings, and first floor interiors of all sites. In addition to touring, Westover Episcopal Church is offering lunch. All are located between scenic Route 5 and the James River in Charles City, a county with an expansive history over its 400 years, including the indigenous, the indentured, the enslaved, early European settlers, and generations of their descendants. Built in the 1700s by a combination of indentured and enslaved labor, Berkeley, Shirley and Westover Plantations are Virginia and National Historic Landmarks, working farms, private homes and living links to our country’s past.

Berkeley Plantation
12602 Harrison Landing Road

Berkeley’s Georgian mansion, built in 1726 of brick fired on the plantation, occupies a landscaped hilltop site overlooking the James River. The estate is the birthplace of Benjamin Harrison V, signer of the Declaration of Independence and governor of Virginia, William Henry Harrison, ninth U.S. president, and ancestral home of his grandson, Benjamin Harrison, thirteenth president. Berkeley’s gardens and lawn extend for a quarter mile from the front door of the mansion to the riverbanks. Many 100-year-old trees grace the restored boxwood gardens offering breathtaking vistas. While strolling the gardens, stop by the monuments to learn the story of America’s First Thanksgiving and hear the sounding of “Taps” echoing across the grounds as it first did during the Union occupation in 1862. John Jamieson, a drummer boy encamped at Berkeley during the Civil War, returned to the plantation in 1907 and purchased the house and 1,400 acres. John’s son, Malcolm, and his wife Grace are responsible for the extensive restoration. Berkeley is owned by Malcolm and Grace’s son and grandchildren, the Malcolm E. Jamieson family.

Shirley Plantation
501 Shirley Plantation Road

Shirley stands as a testament to colonial life and early American history of the indigenous, settlers, indentured, and the enslaved. Established only six years after John Smith’s settlement at Jamestown in 1607, it is the oldest family-owned business in North America, dating to 1638. The present “Great House” was begun in 1725 as a wedding present for Elizabeth Hill and John Carter, eldest son of Robert “King” Carter, and was completed in 1738 by a mixture of indentured and enslaved labor. It is largely in its original state and home to the 11th and 12th generations of the Charles Carter family, the current stewards of the property. Grounds contain eight original outbuildings with exhibits, including a video focusing on the history of enslavement and those who were enslaved at Shirley. A complimentary audio tour highlights the history of the property including information about the original indigenous inhabitants, architecture, archaeology, farming practices throughout the years, emancipation, and the Hill Carter family. Notable landscape features include an oak tree alley entrance, sweeping pastoral views, boxwood gardens, vegetable and herb beds, native sun garden, grape arbor, stately trees, and commanding views of the James River. Owned by the Charles Hill Carter family.

Westover Plantation
7000 Westover Road

An icon of American architecture, Westover has elegant and perfect proportions that are best viewed from the edge of the front lawn. With its steep roof, tall chimneys in pairs, and elaborate doorway, Westover's facade remains one of the most copied in the country. Grounds include a large formal garden arranged around the tomb of William Byrd II, three English wrought-iron gates, among the finest from 18th-century America, a rare iron clairvoyee punctuated by columns capped with icons of virtue, and outbuildings. Ornately carved plaster ceilings, decorative woodwork, richly paneled rooms, and a striking black marble mantelpiece highlight the interior of the Main House. Its history is richer for the contributions and sacrifice of those whose histories are intricately entwined at Westover, particularly indigenous peoples and the enslaved and indentured. A partnership with the Dept. of Historic Resources is facilitating archeological field tests to uncover more, including locating prehistoric camps, enslaved quarters and burial grounds, and a 17th-century courthouse, brewpub, and original Westover Church. Inside the home, noted interior designer Charlotte Moss and her team continue their decorative magic refreshing the rooms while preserving the 300 year history. The new Kitchen and Dining Room, unveiled in 2021, have brought new life to the house. A complete fabric makeover in the first-floor Parlor, in partnership with Schumacher, will be revealed during HGW this year. Fisher and Erda families, owners.
WEDNESDAY, APRIL 27, 2022, 10 A.M. TO 4:00 P.M.

Framed by Mill and Wilkins Creeks, Northumberland’s Mundy Point offers insight into its present and historical past. Invading British troops used the location as the entry to burn and pillage much of the Northern Neck during the War of 1812. Visitors will pass farms and observe crab pots and oyster beds that still characterize the area, envisioning a time when local watermen and farmers supported canneries, packinghouses, and grist mills. Open for Historic Garden Week for the first time, the five properties on this shuttle bus tour showcase diverse architect-designed homes situated on large pieces of property, each with expansive water views. Landscaping ranges from natural woodlands and farm settings to more formal gardens.

New to Historic Garden Week!

TICKET INCLUDES ADMISSION TO THE FOLLOWING 5 PRIVATE HOMES & GARDENS:

Patriot’s Peace
2363 Mundy Point Road
This architect-designed coastal farmhouse is situated on the west side of Mundy Point with expanded views of Wilkins Creek near its confluence with the Yeocomico River. It is a 12-acre property framed by pine woodlands that affords privacy and nesting sites for eagles and other wildlife. Constructed in 2011, this two-story home has an open floor plan that easily accommodates large family gatherings. It offers a beautiful setting that showcases the owners’ collection of American and English antiques, local and regional art, and Native American pieces. The house orientation, in addition to its four exterior porch areas, takes full advantage of the prime waterfront property and gives all living areas direct water views. Mary Jane and Scott Thompson, owners

The Point
536 Mill Creek View Lane
The Point, aptly named for its position as the first of three jutting into Mill Creek, is a 2.5-acre property with home, garden and entertainment spaces defined by rose-covered archways, cascading stone walkways and multi-level terraces. First registered as “Prickly Pear Point,” its original brick ramblers style was replaced in 2007 by the current owner with a structure designed to appear as if it were built and added onto over time. A mix of historically appropriate materials and features define each of the home’s “additions” that include a Spanish-tiled roof and stone-columned portico, a mudroom floored with pre-Civil-War-forged bricks, a massive stone cooking fireplace in the heart of the brick-alcove kitchen and a glassed sunroom leading to the upper-level terrace, pool and raised garden areas. Cobblestone and Pennsylvania blue stone pathways lead down to the property’s oar house, boathouse with a screened porch, fire pit and vine-covered grotto covering a terrace original to the property. Cynthia S. Hudson and her late husband Jim Gann, owners

Willow Oak
302 Ferlazzo Lane
Nestled under a majestic 150-year-old willow oak tree, this property was completed in 2018 and consists of a three-bedroom main residence, two-bedroom guest house, garage, and dock house. Situated on a small peninsula just off the Potomac River, and surrounded by 40 acres of woods, the residence features a dramatic two-story entryway with a floating wood staircase, polished concrete floors, reclaimed heart pine posts and beams, and 6 x 10-foot retracting glass door panels connecting the interior spaces with picturesque water views on three sides. The infinity pool and screened porch further accentuate the home's connection to its natural surroundings. The home also includes two fireplaces, an outdoor fire pit and a lower-level wine room for evening entertainment. This contemporary home won “Best Rural Residential” in the 2020 Best of LaCantina competition. Brenda and Jim Gann, owners

 Warwick Banks
1452 Mundy Point Road
This 30-acre peninsula projecting into Mill Creek includes farmland, pine and hardwood forests and wetlands. Its history as a once-larger farm is evidenced by its late 19th century two-story farmhouse, red barn with attached woodshed and artist’s studio. A brick ranch-style house was constructed in 1947. All these buildings were in a deteriorated state until renovated in 2005 by the current owners with the intent of maintaining as much of the original character of the existing structures as possible. With 270-degree views of Mill Creek, the open floor plan of the main house, organized around a central fireplace, places an emphasis on natural materials—stone, brick and wood—and showcases a collection of modern paintings, sculpture, prints and ceramics. The house and its dependencies are surrounded by extensive informal landscaping as well as large old trees native to the property. Susan and Monte Lake, owners

In Arrees Farm
219 Creekview Lane
Originally a waterman's property, this home is approached through woodlands inspired by those at Pennsylvania’s famed Longwood Gardens. In the spring visitors will enjoy a profusion of daffodils, Lily of the Valley, Jack-in-the-pulpit, Mayapples, Virginia bluebells, hellebores, trilliums, hostas, and ferns. Situated at the head of Mill Creek, this 6-acre property and adjoining horse pasture and stable overlook vast wetlands inhabited by eagles, ospreys, herons, and other native wildlife. The wetlands abut Kissinger Springs, a freshwater pond that was the site of a grist mill. Taking advantage of its creek location, the New England-style coastal home was designed to provide water views from almost every room. Flooring throughout the house is taken from heart of pine logs recovered from a river bottom near Pensacola, Florida. The cherry kitchen cabinets were milled on site from trees on the property, as were the cedar closets. Bill W, owner

Stratford Hall Plantation
Historic home of the Lees and one of the finest examples of Georgian architecture in the country. It was also the home of Richard Henry Lee and Francis Lightfoot Lee, and the birthplace of Robert E. Lee. The formal east garden was restored by the Garden Club of Virginia with proceeds from Historic Garden Week tours. Free grounds admission for all Northern Neck Historic Garden Week ticket holders on Wednesday, April 27.

George Washington’s Birthplace and National Monument, 1732 Popes Creek Rd., Colonial Beach.
Preserves much of the character of the 18th century tobacco plantation where Washington lived until he was about four.

St. Stephen’s Episcopal Church, 6807 Northumberland Highway, Heathsville.
Consecrated in 1881, St. Stephen’s ranks among Virginia’s best examples of the wooden Gothic or “Carpenter’s Gothic” style popular in the mid-19th century. Designed by Baltimore architect T. Buckler Ghequiere, the church is a Virginia Landmark and was added to the National Register of Historic Places in 1979.

Yeocomico Church, 1219 Old Yeocomico Rd., Kinsale.
Built in 1655, this Episcopal Church is the oldest in the Northern Neck and ninth oldest in the U.S. Early members of the church included Mary Washington, mother of George Washington, and members of Virginia’s historic Lee family. George Washington and Richard Henry Lee, a signer of the Articles of Confederation, were baptized here.

Stratford Hall Plantation
Your tour ticket helps support this site and other GCV restoration gardens. The most recent project, the Upper Garden, includes a wide central path, vegetable gardens, heirloom pears, and perennial borders.

Much of this walking and driving tour in Petersburg takes place in the Historic Poplar Lawn District, which began as Fort Henry in 1653. Over the years, the area saw an active Native American trade, was used as a military training ground, and has been a racetrack. An eclectic neighborhood developed consisting of 154 homes. Four of those homes are Native American trade, was used as a military training ground, and has been a racetrack. Much of this walking and driving tour in Petersburg takes place in the Historic Poplar Lawn District, which began as Fort Henry in 1653. Over the years, the area saw an active Native American trade, was used as a military training ground, and has been a racetrack.

129 Marshall Street
Situated on the front lawn of this residence is a millstone from owner Michael Mazaro’s family dating to the 1700s. This Greek Revival home was built in 1840 for one of the sons of John Ragland; it is also known as the Steere House. Mr. Steere was the owner of the Appomattox Iron Works. The property was also once a Petersburg Symphony Designer House. This light-filled home boasts original floor-to-ceiling windows and numerous antiques—a case desk in the foyer, and a pair of Georgian chairs and a petite corner cupboard, all dating from the 1740s, in the living room. Also, there is an 1860s square grand piano, the last remaining remnant of an Alabama hotel. A striking piece of stained glass is incorporated into the archway separating the living room and the dining room, where an American Empire sideboard and a rustic tavern table are important pieces. The white and yellow kitchen is bright and cheerful with a welcoming breakfast nook within a bay window. The powder room features a Christian La Croix wallpapered ceiling and red lacquered walls that display glamour shots of stars from Hollywood’s Golden Era. The back garden includes shade trees, rose bushes and boxwood propagated from Patrick Henry’s bushes at Scottstown. The current owners have named the property Boxwood Lawn as a reference to these plantings. Michael Mazaro and Andrew Cushin, owners

133 Marshall Street
This early Federal-style home, built in 1811, was located on nearby Adams Street, but was later moved to its present site. The original house consisted of the living room, foyer, and dining room and two bedrooms on the second floor. Over the years several additions and renovations have taken place. This home served as a hospital during the Civil War, as a school. Of note on the first floor are two black and rust-colored marble fireplaces and the large and impressive original windows. The furnishings in the home are eclectic, a mix of whimsical and inherited family pieces including an Empire chest of drawers, a petite secretary, a drop-leaf table, grandfather clock and a Jacobean desk. The renovated shiplap kitchen is equipped with soapstone countertops and a butcher block island. The art throughout the home is diverse, reflecting the owners’ interest in the natural world and their family. Stepping out through the sun porch at the rear of the house is a patio and a collection of trees, shrubs and plantings that provide horticultural accents to the outdoor space. Jill Hendricks and Jason Lucas, owners

215 South Jefferson Street
This 1830 Greek Revival home features stately columns and a Palladian window over the front door, creating a quintessential southern porch—both classic and welcoming. Long and wide, it is a gracious entrance to this charming home. The center hall goes through to the double back doors. The owners, who were living in Brooklyn, NY, were encouraged to move to Petersburg by a coworker. Because of the pandemic, they purchased the home through a virtual tour and moved in December 2020. They filled the empty house with a collection of eclectic pieces purchased locally. The home has retained much of its original architectural details—woodwork, heart pine floors, and doors with original hardware. There are two chimneys with exposed brickwork which contain two coal burning fireplaces on each side of the chimneys. The owners brought with them important African American paintings by Charles Bibbs, Paul Goodnight, Danny Simmons, and Leslie Powell, which are displayed throughout the home. In 2006, an extension across the back of the house with two bay windows offers a comfortable sitting room overlooking the expansive backyard. The owners have renovated the backyard borders with low maintenance plantings. Deborah and Conway Boyer, owners

221 South Jefferson Street
Attractive porches stretch across both the front and back of this home. Built in 1854 as a set of row houses, renovations made over the years kept true the original Italianate style and saved the original heart pine floor and twelve fireplaces. In 2003, its then owner received the Historic Petersburg Foundation Restoration Award. Impressive collections gathered by the current owners while living in Europe are displayed throughout. Of special note are Louis XIV pieces in the dining room, an 1800s chandelier, and a large collection of Italian ceramic pottery. Venetian masks, one chosen by each family member, are a favorite souvenir. Byzantine icons reflect the family’s Greek Orthodox and Christian heritage. The veranda at the rear of the house leads down to the brick patio and a garden, creating a peaceful refuge from the city. The variety of plantings create a colorful display year-round. Eleni and Richard Murphy, owners

1675 Mount Vernon Street
(Prison Only)
This Japanese inspired garden began with the removal of a locust tree root ball. The owners’ goal was to make a place for a pond and to add an understory of trees beneath the huge pines as an encouragement for wildlife. Now, over 50 Japanese maple and camellia trees are planted throughout the one-acre garden. There are native and Kousa dogwoods, weeping cherry trees and many types of ferns that add to the serene ambiance, including autumn, tassel, Indian holly, Korean rock, Japanese holly and Japanese painted. Along the meandering paths visitors will see a patch of black bamboo and Chinese ginger. The focal point of the garden is the pond with its two waterfalls. Mature koi swim freely and can be observed from a nearby seating area. While developing the garden, several brick paths were uncovered. The old bricks are believed to be from buildings torn down in Petersburg. Completed in 2014, a garden cottage overlooks it all. Covered by cedar shakes, the two-story cottage provides spectacular views of the adjacent lawn and pond. Due to the uneven ground, visitors are asked to wear closed toe walking shoes. Visitors will enjoy this spectacular garden as well as access to the first floor of the cottage.

Historic Battersea
1289 Upper Appomattox Road
Built in 1768, Battersea showcases unusual, for the area, Palladian style architecture. Its grounds provide a unique historical experience. The picturesque villa sits on 40 acres, along the Appomattox River. Battersea was constructed by Petersburg’s first mayor, Colonel John Banister. He was a member of the House of Burgesses, Continental Congress, signer of the Articles of Confederation, and contributor to the Revolutionary War effort. The five-part design of Battersea was influenced by Italian architect Andrea Palladio and his British counterpart, Robert Morris. Although drawing from both, Banister’s home is its own creation adapted for colonial America. Battersea Foundation is currently restoring this important site for future generations. The estate is one of the finest surviving Palladian structures in America and is a Virginia Historic Landmark listed in the National Register of Historic Places. In addition to the beautiful villa, Battersea has an orangerie constructed between 1825 and 1835. Orangeries like this one were often used for growing fruit trees, flowering plants, and ferns during the winter for nutritional value and aesthetic purposes. A historian will be onsite to discuss and answer questions on this unique structure.

TUESDAY, APRIL 26, AND THURSDAY, APRIL 28, 2022

MORNING TOUR: 10 TO 11:30 A.M. AND 11:30 A.M. TO 1 P.M.
AFTERNOON TOUR: 1 TO 2:30 P.M. AND 2:30 TO 4:00 P.M.

Sold by the state’s Science Museum to Christine and David Cottrell in 2016, this mid-century icon sits on a private island in the James River. Originally designed by California architect Richard Neutra in the 1960s, a stunning recent renovation has opened interior spaces to provide more natural light and views of the river, resulting in a home and landscape that successfully merge nature and man.

This landmark home was built by Walter and Inger Rice in 1963 and designed by world-renowned architect Richard Neutra. Neutra, who originally declined the commission, changed his mind after seeing the stunning site and located the house on the highest hill on Lock Island in the James River. The modernist international style concentrated on rectilinear shapes, visually weightless forms, and the absence of decoration, all of which are represented in the home. Always sensitive to a house’s surroundings, Neutra designed the structure to minimize visual barriers of the river views and to bring nature inside. In 2016, the current homeowners extensively renovated the property. The design team diligently honored Neutra’s original vision by sourcing many materials for the renovations from the original manufacturers and quarries. Several of the interior spaces were opened to provide more natural light and additional views of the river. The renovations have resulted in a totally modernized home for today’s lifestyle as well as a home and landscape that successfully merge nature and man. The owners are dedicated to preserving Neutra’s legacy and their historic Richmond property. Christy and David Cottrell

Richmond: Cottrell House

TICKET INCLUDES ACCESS TO THE COTTRELL HOUSE AND AGECROFT HALL GARDENS:

Agecroft Hall, 4305 Sulgrave Road

Agecroft Hall began life in 1292 in the village of Pendlebury, Lancaster, England. Originally known as “Pendlebury,” the name was changed to “Agecroft” in 1376. From 1292 through the end of the 19th century, Agecroft was home to the Langley and Dauntsey families. By the early 1920s the unoccupied home had fallen into disrepair and was sold at auction to Thomas C. Williams Jr. of Richmond. The house was dismantled, transported to Richmond, and reconstructed in what was then the new Windsor Farms neighborhood. The recreated home included all the comforts and modern facilities of the day. The grounds on the 23-acre estate were originally designed by Charles F. Gillette, who worked closely with Williams’ wife, Bessie, and are reminiscent of its early site in England. After Bessie’s death, the estate became a museum, interpreting life in a Tudor manor house, and the gardens have evolved to emulate a more traditional Tudor style. All 15 garden vignettes and the grounds are open for Tuesday and Thursday tour ticket holders. Separate tickets for self-guided tours of the house can be purchased in advance at agecrofthall.org/purchase-tickets or onsite Thursday, pending availability.

ROTHESAY CIRCLE

TUESDAY, APRIL 26, 2022
MORNING TOUR: 10 A.M. TO 1 P.M. AFTERNOON TOUR: 1 TO 4 P.M.

The neighborhood Rothesay is nestled on scenic bluffs overlooking the James River. It is characterized by sweeping views, expansive lawns, and lush gardens, several of which were designed by famed landscape architect Charles F. Gillette, who lived on Rothesay Circle for a time. A quiet oasis in the middle of a bustling city, Rothesay abuts the long-abandoned Philadelphia quarry, now the site of a private swim club. The eclectic architectural styles of the homes in Rothesay make for a distinctive community, which is close to commercial and recreational areas. It was once a place where homeowners hunted quail and rode horses in their backyards. This is a walking tour. Gardens will be at the height of spring beauty.

1229 Rothesay Circle
This classic mid-century ranch, originally red brick, now sports a bright white exterior and is partially clad in red cedar. A large concrete planter depicting the face of Dora Maar, Pablo Picasso’s companion and muse, welcomes visitors on the front porch. It’s a preview of what’s to come inside: a playful yet refined home furnished with contemporary pieces and eye-popping art. The living room now flows into an open kitchen. Other improvements include an expanded and redone en suite bathroom and rediscovered hardwood flooring throughout. Along a corridor to the principal bedroom is the “diva wall,” holding framed concert-tour books of shows the homeowners attended. The 1958 architectural plans for the house hang here as well. Outside, a newly constructed two-car garage, in addition to cars, houses a half bath, storage and home gym. Behind the house is a reimagined deck that provides ample space for relaxing and entertaining. The back garden has been redesigned and plantings include hydrangeas, buddleias, aucubas, cryptomerias and thuja. Across the front of the house are azaleas, dogwoods, and Japanese forest grass. CJ Vandyke and Matt Hollander, owners

1238 Rothesay Circle
This brick Georgian home, designed by Richmond architect Clarence Huff in 1933, has a commanding view of the James River and the iconic CSX A-Line Bridge. Interestingly, it was once the home of U.S. Supreme Court Justice Louis F. Powell Jr. Nowadays, an active family of four and several pets rule the roost. Over a 10-year period the homeowners have turned the attic into a family rec room, added a walk-out third-story porch, built a new detached garage, and repurposed the old, attached garage as a kitchen. The pool complex with spa and pool house was constructed in 2021. Noteworthy architectural elements are a walnut-paneled library and folding door/triple sash windows in the dining room. The living room features a photograph by Alex Nyerges, director of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts. Modern prints depicting scenes of the James River Park System brighten the butler’s pantry. The front yard has mature magnolias and deodar cedars flanking a circular driveway. In the backyard there are peonies, irises, toad lilies, lady’s mantles and daphnes. A vegetable garden and garden shed were installed in 2017, providing a cottage feel, contrasting with the formal plantings elsewhere. Laura and Patrick Strickler, owners

1215 Rothesay Circle
Built in 1925, this white stucco Spanish/Mediterranean house is reminiscent of old Hollywood. The interior is light and airy with lots of design updates in keeping with the Cali-cool feeling the homeowners love, yet it retains much of the home’s historical charm. Small changes include turning the butler’s pantry into a mudroom and adding a breakfast nook with built-in seats. Of note is the towering foyer with tessellated marble floor and vibrant art. The dining room is decorated with maps of the Chesapeake Bay region and two arched niches containing colorful vintage oyster plates, while leafy patterned wallpaper and an imposing contemporary chandelier add ambience. Whimsical portraits of the children hang in the white living room. The rooms flow seamlessly, allowing for casual, comfortable living for the family and their two dogs. Adding to this setting of ease are a swimming pool, one of the earliest private ones built in Richmond, and several outdoor seating areas. The landscaping around the pool and house has been simplified by replacing overgrown shrubs with ornamental grasses, ‘Knockout’ roses and a living fence of dwarf crepe myrtles. Robin and Larry Monol, owners

Tuesday, April 26, 2022
10:30 a.m. to noon at 2803 Dock Street
Developed along a portion of the Virginia Capital Trail, the Low Line Gardens in spring are not to be missed. With public use and a sustainable ecosystem in mind, this walking path has as much to admire above ground as it does below.

Visitors to the gardens are met with a biodiverse plant palette with an emphasis on native species. Behind the scenes, these intentionally landscaped areas are hard at work reducing stormwater runoff through environmentally focused rain gardens and biofiltration systems.

Tuesday, April 26th only, in celebration of Historic Garden Week, educators will be stationed along the trail to answer questions, provide plant identification and information on Capital Trees and its hardworking gardens. Stretch your legs, enjoy the gardens at your own pace, and get to know a bit more about this unique public landscape.

The Low Line, 2803 Dock St.
This 5.5-acre linear garden, long left neglected, was recently restored and landscaped as a riparian buffer for the James River and Chesapeake Bay watershed. This urban greenspace is planted for year-round interest with a focus on native plants, shrubs, and trees that strengthen the ecosystem and mitigate stormwater runoff. Capital Trees maintains the Low Line with the help of community volunteers and contributors. capitaltrees.org

The Garden at 900 Portland Place
When the homeowners acquired the land for their new house, they knew it would be a challenge to build atop a former limestone quarry. The project required helical piers, which are steel pins driven into the ground to support the foundation. The spacious Georgian Transitional home today occupies a 17-acre site that includes a riding ring, paddock, and updated barn. There is plenty of space for outdoor living and dining on a bluestone patio with a monumental stone fireplace. Truly an urban horse farm, this property is a picturesque anomaly in the City of Richmond. Debbie and Art Hungerford, owners

2904 Rugby Road

Designed by noted Richmond architect Otis K. Asbury, this English Country Tudor directly across from the Carillon has recently been remodeled, successfully blending old and new. Barreled ceilings, arched doorways, leaded glass, and large balcony windows from a 1930s country estate are juxtaposed with contemporary paint colors and furnishings, creating a transitional décor. As an artist, the owner’s love of beautiful things is reflected in her curated collections of art and crystal. Many of the paintings are her own. The home sits on a double lot with a beautiful side yard and rear garden. A small, screened porch off the dining room leads to a boxwood garden, complete with a tea house surrounded by a brick wall. Rows of American boxwood with side beds are filled with annuals, creating splashes of color throughout the spring and summer—a distinctive Gillette touch.

Marsha Andrews, owner

2908 Rugby Road

Built in 1925, designed by Otis Asbury, and situated on the former Oaklane Avenue, this Colonial Revival evokes the elegance of Georgian symmetry and formality with its recessed porch, soaring Dorn columns and curved wing walls adorned with classical urns. These are architectural trademarks of Asbury. The large central foyer and stair hall dominate the ground floor, highlighting the formal layout with black and white Roman marble, arched doorways, and paneling with significant crown molding. Another Asbury twist is the porte-cochere that angles out from the home’s rear corner and has its own charming, marble-floored entry hall. The new residents are currently adding a kitchen and family room, which will have views of the Carillon, and access to a pool and landscaped garden. Douglas Moyers and Michael Maddux, owners

3002 Rugby Road

The original plans for this gracious Colonial Revival abode reside in the Library of Virginia archives as a rare example of single-family residential design work by Henry Carl Messerschmidt (1892-1994), an architect who left a mark on Richmond through many commercial projects including the nearby Cary Court in Carytown. The property has changed hands just twice since construction in 1931. The current owners have transformed it into a spacious multi-generational home with an addition and separate side street entryway. Careful renovation of the main kitchen returned many original details, including a high back cast iron sink and heart pine floors. The owners’ shared interests in herbaceous plants, trees, and birds are celebrated in wallpaper, window treatments, artwork, and natural objects throughout the interior of the house. Plant materials are a diverse mix of trees, shrubs, perennials, and annuals. Climbing hydrangeas, wisteria, and at least a half-dozen other types of vines are trained along fences, walls, and lamp posts. The backyard features a private outdoor living space with a patio and pool, kitchen garden boxes, and a wild mix of plants selected for their fragrance and attractiveness to pollinators. HISTORIC CARILLON

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 27, 2022

MORNING TOUR: 10 A.M. TO 1 P.M. AFTERNOON TOUR: 1 TO 4 P.M.

Nestled to the west of Byrd Park is the Carillon neighborhood, named after the Carillon Bell Tower, Richmond’s soaring World War I Memorial built in 1932. The Carillon is a Virginia Historic Landmark on the National Register of Historic Places. This vivacious and diverse neighborhood has its roots from two single-family farms. After the turn of the century, the Carillon area attracted many of Richmond’s prominent families who hired noteworthy architects of the time such as Duncan Lee, Otis Asbury, and landscape architect Charles F. Gillette. A neighborhood association, the Carillon Civic Association, was formed in 1968.

Even though it is the only house featured that was constructed after World War II, this traditional yet modern residence built in 2000 blends in beautifully with its neighbors. The house was a Southern Living Design Home that is situated on the grounds of a former Gillette garden. It features eight-foot doors, high ceilings, and floor to ceiling windows throughout the first floor, Italian marble in the entryway, birch floors, dental crown molding in the formal spaces, and a patio area with a wall fountain adjoining the garden. Black and white photography collected during the homeowner’s world travels decorate the walls. Diane Pulley Flannery, owner

Marburg House
3102 Bute Lane

The historic Marburg house c. 1889 is the oldest standing structure in the area and predates Maymont Park by four years. The house is set on what was 90 acres of the Beechwood Farm owned by Bolling Walker Haxall, a mid-19th-century textiles, manufacturing and railroad magnate who rented the land to tenant growers. The residence, as it stands today, was built by a German immigrant who named the house after his hometown of Marburg in Hesse, Germany. Stylistically, it is a mix of Folk Victorian, Queen Anne, and Colonial Revival designs, as well as an Art Deco brick wraparound porch. The house features grand rooms, 12-foot ceilings, heart pine floors, and ornate fireplaces. Marburg underwent a full restoration in 2019 after being purchased and saved from demolition by preservationist Dr. William Lipps. Today, it maintains its historic integrity and significance. Ingrid Keller and Nathan Bick, owners

OLD LOCKE LANE & WESTMORELAND PLACE

THURSDAY, APRIL 28, 2022
MORNING TOUR: 10 A.M. TO 1 P.M. AFTERNOON TOUR: 1 TO 4 P.M.

In 1776, Old Locke Lane was the route to the Westham Foundry. Approved by the Fifth Revolutionary Convention, the foundry produced civilian tools and ordnance for the Revolutionary and Civil Wars. During both wars the foundry was destroyed by enemy troops and never rebuilt a second time. Westmoreland Place was established after World War I when the demand for residential construction drove developers west. Both neighborhoods showcase some of the city’s most intriguingly designed houses. From classic 18th-century Georgian homes to Mediterranean-inspired villas, they blend landscapes on a grand scale with stately architecture.

4801 Pocahontas Avenue
Built in 1937, this brick house is deceiving from the front. A recently completed backyard renovation includes the addition of a veranda and extensive garden updates. A gracious brick stairway leads from the veranda to the lower level where the pool capitalizes on the long, narrow lot and adds a sight line to the pool house at the rear. The difference in elevation allows for a dramatic vista when viewed from the veranda. Renovations were designed around two mature elm and oak trees, which provide shade. New terracing features a lush lawn on one side of the pool and a perennial shade garden featuring year-round blooming interest on the other. Inside, at the center of the house, is the dining room, where a pair of 7-by-10 foot preserved and framed giant gunnera manicata leaves, created by famed British artist Stuart Thornton, command attention. Shannon and Christopher Thompson, owners

210 Virginia Avenue
Built in 1925, this beautifully proportioned brick Georgian home was extensively renovated in 2018 to provide indoor and outdoor gathering spaces for family get-togethers. The renovation includes a new owner’s suite, complete with a yoga and exercise studio, as well as the addition of a large family room with dining space and wet bar. The veranda, added across the back of the house and accessed through three sets of double French doors, overlooks the newly created backyard designed to be an at-home oasis. A small formal upper terrace is anchored by an Italian fountain, original to the home. The garden focus is a new luxurious swimming pool and lanai surrounded by large pots overflowing with seasonal flowering plants and Japanese maples. The small side yard is surrounded by Limelight and Nikko blue hydrangeas, hardy gardenias, azaleas, ‘Knock Out’ roses, kousa dogwood and additional plants for year-round interest. Sherrie Page Gayer and Raymond A. Gayer, III, owners

The Garden at 4706 Pocahontas Avenue
Two lots, one of which contained a Gillette garden, and two homes, were once configured at this location. The home on the eastern lot was torn down, and through the years, multiple additions were made to the surviving one, originally built in 1939. The owners maintained the original shape of the Gillette garden and undulations of the plant materials under the tree canopy with, remarkably, a few azaleas and a rhododendrons surviving from Gillette’s original installation. Multiple raised vegetable gardens, extensive lawn areas, a pool from the 1940s and the eight-acre field next door created a haven for the four active Bemiss children and their friends. Special to the house, and rare in Virginia, are the five white-barked Himalayan birch trees. The previous owner, Margaret Bemiss, was a long-time Garden Club of Virginia Board member who wrote Historic Virginia Gardens, the story of the Garden Club of Virginia’s restoration projects made possible from funding from Historic Garden Week tours. Elsie and Sam Bemiss, owners

Wilton House Museum
215 South Wilton Rd.

This colonial mansion overlooking the James River was built southeast of Richmond between 1750 and 1753 and moved in 1934 to its present location by The National Society of the Colonial Dames in the Commonwealth of Virginia. Known for the magnificence of its Georgian architecture and its 18th century furnishings, Wilton contains floor-to-ceiling paneling in all rooms. The grounds were landscaped by the Garden Club of Virginia in 1936 with funds from Historic Garden Week tours and will be open on Thursday for tour guests to enjoy the views of the James and as a picnic lunch site. For information about tours of the house, visit wiltonhousemuseum.org

Kent-Valentine House
12 East Franklin St.

One of the most architecturally significant and visually prominent antebellum mansions in downtown Richmond was designed in 1845 by Isaiah Rogers, a noted New England architect, for Mr. and Mrs. Horace Kent. It is the only remaining residential structure known to have been designed by this leader of the Greek Revival movement. Modified and enlarged by Mr. and Mrs. Granville Gray Valentine in 1904, this stately mansion occupies a quarter-block of historic Franklin Street. The building has been preserved and the grounds landscaped by the Garden Club of Virginia. Headquarters of the Garden Club of Virginia and Historic Garden Week in Virginia since 1971. gcvirginia.org

Virginia Executive Mansion
1111 E. Broad St.

The oldest governor’s mansion in the United States was completed in 1813 and is still used as a home to the Commonwealth’s governors. Designed by Boston architect Alexander Parris, the mansion, a classic example of Federal-style architecture, features a simple two-story brick façade with frontal symmetry and a door surmounted by a semicircular fanlight. The columned porch and decorative panels of swags and garlands typical of the period were added in the 1820s. The original interior echoed the exterior symmetry with a large central entrance hall flanked by two square rooms to the front and two square rooms in the rear separated by a wall beyond a pair of staircases. A major renovation in 1906 by Duncan Lee opened the two rear rooms to create a large reception area and added an oval dining room just beyond. The mansion’s second story currently houses a pair of guest rooms from the original architectural plan and a private apartment for the First Family. In the 1950s, First Lady Anne Bassett Stanley employed Charles Gillette to design and install a formal garden suitable for entertaining on the south side of the mansion. This restoration project of the Garden Club of Virginia was funded with proceeds from Historic Garden Week tours. In 2016, First Lady Dorothy McAuliffe dedicated a garden outside the Mansion’s old slave quarters and kitchen to the families of former slaves working at the mansion. The Garden Club of Virginia worked collaboratively on this project.
